EXPECT REPEAL OF PORTION OF TARIFF RULES

Flexible Provisions to Be Cut in Spite of Fact They Are Constitutional

PRESIDENT HAS POWER
National Leader Allowed Tariff Making Strength to Use at Any Time

Washington — Congress probably will repeal the flexible provisions of the tariff law within the next few years, irrespective of the decision of the supreme court of the United States that such provisions are wholly constitutional.

If anything the supreme court decision will hasten the repeal, for while there was a doubt as to constitutionality and also while the tariff commission was in a wrangle, the disposition of the congress was to let things drift. Now, however, the fact that the president of the United States has been given a tariff-making power which he can exercise at any time has made a profound impression on congress.

Originally it was contended that to give the president the right to increase or diminish rates when conditions changed would take the issue out of politics. As a matter of fact, it did not destroy the high protectionist and moderate protectionist theories which envelop all tariff discussions. As a consequence the tariff commission has lined up definitely on those two theories and the president, who is a strong protectionist, has upheld 17 recommendations to increase the tariff and only four to decrease. The latter four are said to be relatively insignificant in economic effect compared to the 17 increases.

Congress is just waking up to find that whereas the votes of a group or section can be used to defeat a schedule that is too high and a fight can be made before both houses of congress, the situation with a flexible provision is that congress has no further voice in the matter when once the power to delegate has been given, unless, of course, a new tariff bill is brought in for consideration—something not likely to occur just because a group of interests want a schedule revised.

FAVORS EARLY REPEAL
Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader, favors repeal at once of the flexible provisions of the tariff. He offers instead a tariff commission responsible to the president but to congress so that it increases or decreases rates on recommendation of the commission. Then congress will have the right to pass upon them. This proposal is finding favor among those who advocate some kind of scientific investigation of tariff data and a permanent body to do fact-finding. It does not meet the objection of those who want no flexible provisions at all, believing that this keeps business under a cloud of uncertainty all the time.

The movement to revise the tariff is strong in the senate but at present the protectionist wing of both parties is able to prevent any tinkering with existing schedules. While there might be a disposition to repeal the flexible tariff provisions this would open up the whole problem of the tariff, something that Republican leaders are unwilling to do in a presidential campaign. It is within the realm of probability, however, that after the campaign is over, the movement to take away from the chief executive any rate-making power will be revived with more chance of success.

FIND MUTILATED BODY OF BLASTING FARMER

Stoughton — (AP) — The mutilated body of Edward Sather, 48, bachelor farmer living seven miles west of here was found late Tuesday on his farm. He had apparently been killed by an explosion of dynamite he had been using to remove large rocks from the soil of one of his tobacco fields. Neighbors heard the last blast late Wednesday, and Sather had not been seen since that date. Logan Miller, employed on a nearby farm, went to the Sather farm on an errand Tuesday afternoon and discovered the body.

Sather is survived by four sisters and four brothers who all live in this vicinity. Funeral services have been planned in a Stoughton chapel Friday.

COURT EJECTS SPECTATOR IN KLAN HEARING

Cry of "Liar" During Witness' Story Causes Banishment of Former Klansman

Pittsburg, Pa. — (AP) — Charges that Imperial Wizard Hiram Evans, of the Ku Klux Klan, used Klan money to foster murder, riots, arson and other acts of violence, were made in federal court here Wednesday afternoon by Van A. Barrickman, attorney for five deposited members, who seek a receivership for the order in Pennsylvania. Barrickman said Evans not only misused the funds of the order, but had boasted he was the order and that he would elect presidents, control congress, dominate the courts and overthrow state governments.

Pittsburg — (AP) — The trial of Ku Klux Klan injunction suits was temporarily halted in federal court Wednesday when a spectator was ejected after he had called a witness a liar. Dr. Charles F. Hunter, one of five "deposited" Klansmen, was on the stand describing a tilt between Van A. Barrickman, a co-defendant, and Dr. H. C. Shaw, grand dragon of Pennsylvania, at Barrickman's trial before the order, at the time of the interruption.

Dr. Hunter said a man put his hand in his pocket and said "I'll get him," (meaning Barrickman). "Who was that man?" asked Lewis C. Walkinshaw, counsel for the former Klansmen. "William J. Hohmann," "You're a liar," shouted Hohmann. He was ejected from the court room. The trial then proceeded.

Testimony that high Klan officials had defied Carnegie, Pa., authorities when they marched into that town in August, 1923, was given Wednesday morning. K. K. Hogue, of Swissvale, Pa., former Klan Klansman, and "G. C. man—private investigator for the order—said that he objected to the march after Carnegie authorities had refused a permit for the parade. He said S. D. Rich, then Grand Dragon of Pennsylvania told him that he was powerless to stop the march, because Imperial Wizard Hiram Evans had ordered it.

One Klansman was killed and others injured during a riot that ensued. Hogue testified that prior to the trouble at Steeldale, Rich instructed the Klansmen to go to that town "prepared."

The whipping of two Jewish men by Tulsa, Okla., Klansmen was testified to by Frank S. Lanham of Sand Springs, Okla. He said the Klan night riders took the two men to a woods and ordered them to strip each other, alleging that they had made advances to young girls. When they refused, Lanham said, the night riders applied the lashes.

S. L. Clark, Hazelwood, former Cyclops, said he understood H. C. Shaw, Hazelwood, Grand Dragon of Pennsylvania attended the Chicago Eucharistic congress, posing as a priest. After the congress Shaw told the Klansmen Clark testified that it was the beginning of a movement to turn the government over to the Roman Catholics, and said that unless the Klan took action, the state of the world would be over their running things.

Norris Captures Four Of Seven Nebraska Delegates

Omaha, Neb. — (AP) — Amid peaceful surroundings, compared with the Chicago disorders in the Illinois primaries, Nebraska Tuesday elected Democratic and Republican delegates to the national conventions, nominated a U. S. Senator and selected an entire slate of state officers.

Crippled telephone communication, caused by the recent storm in eastern Nebraska last Thursday and Friday, made communication difficult in eastern counties and in and out of Omaha, state election headquarters of the Associated Press.

On the face a representative group of precincts from widely scattered sections of the state, it was indicated that United States Senator R. B. Howell won renomination over Attorney General O. S. Spillman, his opponent.

The vote in 544 precincts out of 1933 in Nebraska, gave: Howell 25,599; Spillman 19,629.

Arthur Mullen, veteran Democratic leader in the state apparently won reelection as Democratic national committeeman over William Ritchie, Jr., cousin of Nebraska's governor. The vote in 403 precincts gave Mullen 10,449; Ritchie 7,882.

Leading the Republican race for Attorney general, was C. A. Sorensen of Lincoln, campaign manager for Senator George W. Norris and his chief aide in Nebraska.

ACCUSE DAWES OF POLITICAL IDEAS

Iowan Says Delay of Farm Bill Is to Aid Illinois Man in Race

Washington — (AP) — Enraged by charges of delay to gain political support for Vice-President Dawes in the coming Republican convention, the senate turned Wednesday to consideration of additional amendments to the McNary-Laughan farm relief bill.

Leaders hoped to speed up this program and have the measure ready for a vote a few days.

What will happen when the bill finally gets to the White house is now known, but it was plainly indicated Tuesday that if the equalization fee provision is retained at passage, it stands little chance of receiving President Coolidge's approval.

As it stands now, the president feels the measure still contains several provisions that met his disapproval in vetoing the bill last year, chief among which is the equalization fee.

Senator Brookhart, Republican independent of Iowa, one of the opponents of the bill, took the senate by surprise when he charged that the measure has been held up by those friendly to Vice President Dawes to bring the latter to the front as a presidential candidate. This was denied by a majority.

The Iowan, who was in the late presidential race, said the delay was to force the farm relief issue into the last stages of the pre-convention campaign and that Dawes was running for the presidency as a support of the measure, which should be called "Dawes bill."

15 KILLED, 30 INJURED IN FRANCE TRAIN WRECK

Paris — (AP) — Fifteen persons were killed and thirty injured in a collision of trains bound for the English race track just outside of Paris at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The crash took place near the great French railroad station Gare du Nord, and resulted in a race train crashing into an empty one.

Firemen and wrecking crew, after two hours work, succeeded in extricating nine bodies from the wrecked trains which had caught fire. Only two of the bodies had been identified late Wednesday and both of these were Frenchmen.

TRACE LIBERTY FUND THROUGH BANKS TO FALL

Succession of Witnesses Called and Great Mass of Testimony Presented

Washington — (AP) — Driving ahead with the same rapidity which all along has characterized the present Teapot Dome trial, the government Wednesday put a mass of testimony, before a jury which will decide whether Harry F. Sinclair is guilty of conspiring with Albert B. Fall in the leasing of the Wyoming naval oil reserve.

A succession of witnesses were called to trace through banks and lock-boxes the Liberty bonds involved in the transaction which the government contends went to Fall as a bribe and which the defense upholds as an honest business deal by which Sinclair bought an interest in Fall's ranch.

Whether a considerable batch of the correspondence between Fall and other persons concerning oil leases will be introduced in evidence will be determined by Justice Bailey at a later date, as a result of a defense move Wednesday.

INTRODUCE LETTERS

When Owen J. Roberts, special prosecutor, attempted to introduce the correspondence, George P. Hoover, Sinclair's lawyer, objected on the grounds that Fall's correspondence with others than Sinclair could not have any bearing upon the charges against Sinclair. Roberts withdrew all the letters except one Fall wrote to him in 1921, to Edward L. Boherty in which Fall said he was going to have complete charge of all oil leases. Meantime, the defense withdrew its objection to the letters withdrawn, and Roberts told the court he would introduce them after Justice Bailey's ruling on the July 8 letter. The other documents which had been used at the first trial of Sinclair and Fall, were considered of importance to the government's case.

Roberts finally introduced the Teapot Dome lease and read all of the long document.

The jurors were shown ledger accounts containing bank accounts of Fall, his son-in-law, M. T. Everitt, and the Teapot Dome Cattle and Land Co. They also looked at deposit slips showing the deposit of Liberty bonds to these accounts.

E. C. Bremer, assistant secretary of the interior, testified that he had not been consulted in the Teapot Dome lease and had nothing to do with it.

CALL BLACKMER AGAIN

Calling H. M. Blackmer, in song Teapot Dome witness in the trial, the government Wednesday laid the groundwork for another contempt proceeding against him when he failed to respond.

Blackmer, who is in Paris, failed to respond at the first trial of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall last October and his property was seized by the government. He then was subpoenaed for the present trial. His attorney told the court the Draynor man would not heed the second subpoena.

Blackmer was wanted to tell of the organization of the Continental Trading Co., some of whose profits in Liberty bonds were used to pay the Teapot Dome lease.

A letter from Sinclair to Fall on Feb. 2, 1922, was introduced relating to the possibility of leasing Teapot Dome land for oil. It was a confidential letter in which Sinclair was offering to lease the land to Fall for $100,000.

THE WINNERS

In a sweeping victory over the Thompson-Crow-Small faction, Louis Emerson, 65-year-old secretary of state for Illinois, was nominated Tuesday in the state primary. His total vote was 256,526.

REFUSE BAIL FOR MURDERER OF WIFE

Remus, Bootleg King, Forced to Remain in Insane Hospital

Columbus, Ohio — (AP) — George Remus, bootleg king, who was charged with the murder of his wife, Wednesday was refused bail by the state supreme court and must remain in the Lunatic hospital for a period of time until further action is taken in his fight for freedom.

In refusing Remus bail pending a hearing on an appeal from the decision of the Third district court of appeals at Lima that the bootleg king's appeal is denied, the supreme court also denied a request to vacate the entry of the appeal. The second application to vacate the entry was supplemented by the application for bail and made on the ground that the Supreme court's action holding up the release of Remus from the state hospital and his confinement in the state hospital was a violation of the constitution.

Remus must now remain in the state hospital until the supreme court reviews his case from the Third district court of appeals. He would have been released had he appealed to the state supreme court.

LEADERS KEEP ADVANTAGE IN DELEGATE RACE

Returns from Four State Primaries Boost Claims of Lowden and Al Smith

Washington — (AP) — Leaders in the free-for-all battle of ballots for presidential delegates retained their advantages Wednesday on the face of returns from four state primaries and caucuses at which 155 Kansas City and Houston voters were at stake.

Lowden picked up at least 20 in the Illinois Republican primary, boosting his total to 130 pledges and claimed convention votes to date. Hoover who did not figure in Tuesday's balloting, still has a lead of 181 instructed and pledged delegates.

MOKE FOR LOWDEN

The former Illinois governor stood Wednesday to gain further support as a result of Tuesday's Nebraska primary, where 19 delegates were voted upon, and Wednesday's convention in North Carolina, where four delegates at large were to be selected. The combined returns, however, is falling more for the southern state's voters.

The primary in Nebraska, where Senator Norris had filed, was in doubt early Wednesday although Governor McMillen's slate of delegates pledged to the equalization fee in the farm relief bill held a slight lead over the McKelvie slate.

Four congressional district Republican conventions in Oklahoma Tuesday selected instructed delegates while resolutions expressing confidence in Lowden, Senator Curtis and Vice President Dawes were adopted at one of these meetings.

Balbo, the only other state where delegates were chosen Tuesday instructed its 11 for Senator Borah, with Hoover as second choice.

BIG GAIN FOR SMITH

On the Democratic side, Governor Smith carried at least 17 of the 40 instructed delegates chosen in Illinois and ran his total of pledged and claimed delegates to 241. Nebraska's 16 votes already had been conceded former Senator Hilebeck, and a total of 100 delegates was expected to go to Smith and his supporters.

The latter, the "law" which had been watched with interest by supporters of Smith and the Missouri senator, resolved into a tie, and the contest between the Smith-Hilebeck and ultra-dry anti-Smith parties.

Former State Secretary Piles Up Majority of Almost 300,000 Over Governor

SWANSON WHIPS CROWE

Otis Glenn Triumphs Over Frank L. Smith, Twice Refused Seat for Senate

Chicago — (AP) — Candidates nominated for principal offices in Illinois at Tuesday's primary election as indicated by incomplete returns Wednesday were:

Governor—Republican: Louis L. Emerson, incumbent secretary of state; Democratic: Floyd E. Thompson, state supreme court justice.

Attorney general — Republican: Otis E. Glenn, incumbent; Democratic: Thomas J. Courtney, former state senator.

United States senator—Republican: Otis E. Glenn, former state senator; Democratic: Anton J. Cernak, president of Cook County board of commissioners and leader of the "wet" element in Illinois Democracy.

State attorney Cook — Republican: John A. Swanson, circuit court judge; Democratic: William J. Lindley.

Chicago — (AP) — Illinois voters in statewide primary election Tuesday wrote Gov. Len Small off the books of the political future, dashed the hopes of Frank L. Smith for another mandate in the state of the United States and in Chicago, and left the Republican leadership of Mayor Thompson by defeating his choice for state attorney, Robert Crowe.

It was unusually large turnout of voters that swept aside almost in an instant the Republican ticket of Small-Thompson-Crowe, which "America First," blazoned on billboards and street signs the length of the state.

Len Small, two-term governor seeking Republican renomination at the head of Mayor Thompson's "America First" ticket, was crushed under the ballot-laden machine, which flattened his political ambitions as thoroughly in Chicago as it did in the state.

Robert Emmett Crowe, who prosecuted Leopold and Leopold and who presided at the "America First" ascription of Mayor Thompson in Cook County, had fallen in his attempt to mount the third time step of state attorney.

Even the major himself, not a candidate for any post more important than the continuation of his home ward, was dazed even that office.

Louis Lincoln Emerson, 64 year old secretary of state, was the candidate who swept to an unexpectedly large majority over Senator Thompson, who had been the state's 66th precinct tally, was 256,526, indicating, if the percentage of advantage were maintained in remaining returns, a final majority in the neighborhood of 400,000.

The Emerson vote in the 3043 precincts, was 611,816, the totals representing 2,290 precincts and 1,752 counties. The vote for Small in the same precincts was 258,211.

SWANSON IN LEAD

Judge John A. Swanson, who headed the "America First" ticket against Crowe in the state, was the leading candidate who appeared in the nomination of state attorney. He ran behind the Emerson lead, but he was maintaining a margin which he was confident carried victory.

Emerson, Swanson, and Attorney General Courtney, also successful in his efforts to win renomination, were top picks of the Republican group which recognized the leadership of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen. The all but certain success of virtually the entire Deneen slate held powerful political potent, for it opened the road to party control by Senator Deneen, who had been elected while Mayor Thompson and State Attorney Crowe were in.

Another Deneen success was scored in the contest of Otis E. Glenn, Chicago and Murphysboro lawyer, who, although running behind the trail-blazing lead of Emerson, had a marked vote advantage over Frank L. Smith, the main the senate twice refused to admit. With 3,639 of the state's 6,831 precincts reported, Glenn had 445,770 votes to Smith's 224,339. These returns included more than half of Cook County's 3,056 voting places.

The "crime campaign" which revolved about the state's attorney's contest between Crowe and Judge Swanson, attracted sharper interest in Chicago than the governorship. Judge Swanson, whose home, with that of Senator Deneen, was bombed 16 days ago, was increasing his lead as late returns came from the slow-counting Chicago precincts. Returns from 1,340 of the county's 3,056 precincts gave Swanson 162,718 to Crowe's 104,236.

WILL THOMPSON RESIGN?

Judge Swanson's apparent nomination also gave city politics a sharp twist, for Mayor Thompson, in the final moments of the campaign suggested the possibility of his resigning the mayoralty if Crowe were beaten. With

NAME CENTERS WHERE COUNTY ELIMINATION CONTESTS TO BE HELD

Rural Students Will Vie for Honor of Attending Meet Here Next Month

Contest centers at which meets will be held to determine what rural school students will represent each town at the county arithmetic, spelling and achievement contests on rural school commencement day in Appleton, were named Tuesday by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools.

Each rural school, according to Mr. Meating, will hold local contests in arithmetic, spelling, achievement and athletic events. The winner or first and second place will be entered in the town contest and the winners of first place at the town contests will be entered in the county meeting.

The annual county field day will be held in Appleton on May 5 and the school securing the highest number of points will receive a silver loving cup donated by the Appleton Post-Crescent. Individual high point winners in girls and boys events also will receive silver loving cups from the Post-Crescent.

Arithmetic, spelling and achievement contests will be held here on the annual rural school commencement day, the first week in June. The achievement contest will consist of tests in history and reading. Winners of the county contest will be sent to the state fair at Milwaukee next fall, where they will enter the state contest.

Local contests are being held in all rural schools during the next two weeks and the town contest must be held before April 27, as a date to be set by teachers of the schools in the town, according to Mr. Meating. Following is the name of the school and town at which each town contest will be held:

Black Creek, Fairview school; Bozina, Shiocton school; Buchanan, Combind Locks school; Center, Pleasant Dale school; Cicero, Cicero Graded school; Dale, Dale Graded school; Deer Creek, Coffey Bridge school; Ellington, Stephenville school; Freedom, Sunny Corners school; Grand Chute, Woodlawn school; Greenville, Pleasant Corners school; Hortonville, Knowledge school; Keshish, Oak Grove school; Liberty, Three Pines school; Maple Creek, Golden Hill school; Maine, Leeman school; Oneida, Silvery Summit school; Osborn, Pioneer school; Seymour, Woodland school; Vandenberg, Hermann.

OFFICIAL CANVASS PUTS SELLS AHEAD

Florence Man Leads Gauerke by 56 Votes on Official Returns from District

Arthur Sells, Florence, and Dr. W. C. Sullivan, Kaukauna, have been selected delegates to the Republican national convention in Kansas City, a final check of official canvasses in the nine counties of the Ninth district discloses.

Sells, an unopposed Republican, won over William Gauerke, Sturgeon Bay, progressive, by 56 votes in the district, and Sullivan, progressive, had a lead of 91 votes for Sells. Charles Raught, Kaukauna, unopposed Republican, was several hundred votes behind Gauerke.

The race has been in the history of the Ninth district and it was impossible to determine the winner until after the official canvass in every county. Unofficial returns indicated Gauerke was elected by 11 votes but the official canvass and Brown and Outagamie counties changed the vote sufficiently to put Sells four votes ahead. Reports from a few more counties put Gauerke back in the lead but in the final tabulation the Florence man finished 64 votes ahead.

Here are the final totals: Raught, 30,204; Sells, 10,746; Gauerke, 10,690; Sullivan, 10,837.

MAENNERCHOR WORKS ON SILVER JUBILEE PLANS

Plans for the silver jubilee of the Appleton Maennerchor to be observed in Appleton, April 22, have been completed, and invitations have been sent to all members of the Eastern Wisconsin singing district, according to O. W. Schaefer, president of the district.

The program for the afternoon will be composed of songs by the local Maennerchor and the mixed choir, under the direction of Prof. A. J. Theiss. The speakers for the banquet to be held at 6 o'clock in the evening will be Ernest Glazie, and O. W. Schaefer. Speeches also will be given by officers of the Eastern Wisconsin district. The evening will be spent in dancing and entertainment.

The Maennerchor will meet at 7:30 Thursday evening, April 12, to rehearse the songs for the jubilee.

PROSPECT FOR SURVEY OF RETAIL BUSINESS

There is a possibility that a survey of retail business will be conducted here by the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, according to Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce. While the plan has received but little thought so far, the matter will be taken up with the merchants for their approval. Two representatives of the extension division are scheduled to be here April 25 to discuss the plan with local business men.

IT'S CLEAN UP TIME AROUND CITY BARN

It's spring cleaning time at the city barns and now that the street equipment has been cleaned and put in readiness for the coming season, attention is being turned to cleaning up the yards back of the barns. Equipment which is left standing in the yards is being placed in orderly manner and employees of the street department are sawing up lumber which has accumulated during the winter months.

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB SINGS HOME CONCERT HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

ELEVEN Appleton men will sing in the concert which the Lawrence college glee club will present at 8:15 Thursday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. They are Ross Cannon, Mark Catlin, Jr., Reynolds

Challoner, Robert Gallagher, Carl Engler Engler, Howard McMahon, Glen Opperman, Alan Harwood, William Meyer and Ray Menning. Everett Roubush, an Appleton boy, is the accompanist and the business manager is Reynolds Challoner, also of this city.

The glee club, which is composed of forty five voices, will present a program of great variety and of unusual ly high standard for college male choruses. The singing of the organization is noteworthy for its excellent quality, richness of tone, fine shading clear diction and general responsiveness to the conductor's baton. In their concert Thursday evening they will be assisted by soloists from the faculty of Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

DOPESTERS BELIEVE JOHNS WILL OPPOSE SCHNEIDER AT POLLS

Editorial Writer Thinks Appleton Man Will Enter Race for Congress

Political dopesters around the state capital in Madison have marked it on their cards that J. L. Johns, Appleton, secretary to Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, will be a candidate for election as congressman against George J. Schneider next fall.

Winter Everett, who writes a column of political observations for the Wisconsin State Journal at Madison, is responsible for the suggestion that Mr. Johns might be a candidate against Congressman Schneider.

This is what Mr. Everett had to say about the matter:

"Ninth district republican leaders who have been in the city recently state there is a prospect that Joshua L. Johns, private secretary to the governor, will be a candidate against Congressman J. Schneider for nomination in the ninth district. It is said Mr. Johns has many friends in the district who are anxious he shall make the race."

"Mayor James McGillan of Green Bay is desirous of being a candidate, but it is said he will not enter the race if the regular republican leaders in the district believe Mr. Johns the stronger candidate. Mr. Johns has been a progressive kind, if he decides to be a candidate, he will unquestionably come out on a progressive platform."

"The Blaine-La Follette people will be behind Congressman Schneider. Their backing may not be as enthusiastic as it has been in past years, as the Blaine-La Follette leaders consider that Congressman Schneider was one of the persons who aided Senator Blaine to commit the Blaine-La Follette people to the wet issue."

HUSBAND PLAYS FOR MADAM GALLI-CURCI

Noted Singer and Husband Will Arrive Here Sunday Evening for Concert

Music lovers who had anticipated the concert which Amelita Galli-Curci was to give here Feb. '22, will have the opportunity to hear the famous singer less than a week from now. Galli-Curci will sing Monday evening, April 16, at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

Madame Galli-Curci, with her husband, Homer Samuels, will arrive in Appleton Sunday night. Homer Samuels will play the accompaniments and songs which make a part of the fascinating programs which Galli-Curci sings.

Those who have enthusiastically delighted in the perfect singing of Amelita Galli-Curci have also marvelled at the flawless accompaniment played by her husband. Such unity of sympathy and inspiration between voice and piano is rarely to be found. This may be due in part because the great singer does all her studying with her husband at the piano, together with him all her roles in opera are studied and rehearsed and all her programs practiced.

For eight consecutive years Madame Galli-Curci has charmed vast audiences in concert everywhere in this country and in Canada. Her triumphs have extended to Europe also. There are still some tickets left for the concert Monday evening and those admirers of this singer who have not already secured their tickets for the concert may still do so.

Let the Kelvinator man test your refrigerator

KELVINATOR is making a city-wide test of home refrigerators. Within the next few weeks the Kelvinator man will come to your home and ask if he may test yours.

He will tell you accurately and frankly just what protection your refrigerator is giving against taint and spoilage. Certainly important where family health is concerned!

Refrigeration, you see, is simply a matter of temperature. If the thermometer test shows your refrigerator constantly under fifty degrees, you are protected from the bacteria of decay.

If it varies over that temperature . . . and most old-fashioned refrigerators do . . . your family is being subjected to foods containing high bacterial activity.

Let the Kelvinator man test your refrigerator . . . he will give you a better and clearer understanding of what the constant cold of Kelvinator means to you and your family.

NEW FILTRATION
PLANT AT MENASHA
NOW IN OPERATIONEngineer Says It Is One of Three Most Modern Plants
in United States

Menasha—Menasha's new $100,000 filtration plant, which has just been completed and is now temporarily open to public inspection, is constructed of reinforced concrete and faced brick and has concrete floors. It covers a surface of approximately 135 by 120 feet and has one and two stories above the basement. Its capacity is 4,000,000 gallons a day which will answer all requirements for years to come.

The lobby is 19 by 30 feet with a stair leading to an operating floor of 19 by 80 feet and which contains control tables, gauges and meters. There is a lavatory room and a complete set of equipment for analyzing the water. The machine room is 19 by 30 feet and contains two dry feed chemical machines and automatic basin controller. The bath room is equipped with shower baths and sanitary appliances.

The interior finish of the operating room and lavatory is, wainscoting height, white enamel brick above which is terra cotta faced brick. Above the machine room is a chemical storage room for everything. The basement contains raw water and wash water pumps and a steam heating plant with oil burners. Below the operating floor is a gallery 100 feet wide, 80 feet long and 18 feet high, containing piping which controls the rate of flow through the filters. There are two settling basins 40 feet wide, 80 feet long and 18 feet deep.

On top of the roof of the settling basin is a tank which contains the piping and spray nozzles which aerates the water before it goes to the settling basins. The two settling basins have a capacity of 500,000 gallons of water. Below the filters is a water storage tank of 250,000 gallons.

The contract for the buildings was awarded to C. R. Meyer and Sons company of Oshkosh and the Norwood Engineering company of Florence, Mass., furnished the equipment. The contract for plumbing and heating was awarded to J. F. Drexler of Menasha and electric work was done by the city electric department. J. P. Kuester, superintendent of water and light distribution, is in charge of the plant. H. W. Hosford of the Norwood Engineering company of Florence, Mass., who is in Menasha this week, informed him that there is no need to exceed the pollution standards in the water which will compare with the Menasha plant.

The formal opening of the new plant was marked by a 6:30 dinner at Hotel Menasha Tuesday evening which was attended by professional men of Menasha and Neenah, water commissioners of Menasha, Neenah and Appleton and city officials of Menasha. Covers were laid for 45 persons and among the out of town guests were O. J. Muegge of Madison, assistant sanitary engineer of the state board of health, H. W. Hosford of the Norwood Engineering company of Massachusetts, who installed the equipment in the plant, and Edward Meyer of C. R. Meyer & Sons of Oshkosh, who erected the buildings.

That the water distributed by the new plant is sparkling and pure and has excellent equalities was demonstrated at the dinner where it was served unbeknown to the guests. It was in great demand during the dinner and when the guests were informed after the meal that it was purified river water whatever prejudice they might have had against it vanished.

Alderman Frank O. Heckrodt, chairman of the water and light committee which consists of Aldermen Borenz, Fahnenstiel, Michalekiewicz and Finch, presided at the dinner. The talks were confined to about five minutes and among those called on were Mayor N. G. Remmel, H. W. Hosford, O. J. Muegge, Edward Meyer, A. E. McMahon, Joseph Plank and A. J. Hall of Appleton, Mayor Dennhardt of Neenah, and Dr. G. E. Forchman of J. J. Kuester of Menasha. The dinner was followed by an inspection of the plant. The entire equipment was explained to the visitors by attendants. The plant is in charge of J. H. Kuester, superintendent of water and light distribution, Theodore Finch, operator, and S. L. Spengler, J. J. Kuester. The new filtration plant joins the waterworks plant and at night will be looked after by the engineer of the waterworks plant. Mr. Kuester is being called up daily by other cities contemplating installing filtration plants for details of the new building. Sheboygan was among those that called Wednesday.

LEGION, AUXILIARY
SEEK BUS SERVICEThink Park, Cemetery and Island Should Be Made Accessible to Autos

Neenah—Preliminary steps were taken Tuesday evening at a joint meeting of American Legion and Legion Auxiliary held at the library, to devise plans whereby busses can be operated between Riverside park and Oak Hill cemetery and possibly to points on the island. The project was discussed and will be brought to the attention of traction officials and the city council. About a year ago Mayor Denhardt started action on bus connections and lower fares for the west end, but up to the present time nothing has materialized which has prompted the Legion and auxiliary to take this action.

Feeling that Riverside park and the municipal bath house are among Neenah's beauty spots, especially during the summer months, and no transportation is afforded people to get to them, prompted the action.

SCHOOLS INVITED TO STATE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's high schools will take part in the All-State Music Festival to be held here May 11-12 under the direction of the school of music of the University of Wisconsin.

Under this year's plan, the emphasis has been placed upon the educational value of the festival, rather than upon the competitive feature of a state contest, those in charge of the festival say. No prizes will be awarded, but certificates of merit will be given to all groups that earn them. Sufficient opportunity, however, for competition has been retained to provide means of comparison and to satisfy those schools interest in contests.

Group instruction of individuals, and coaching for groups will be offered by members of the faculty of the school of music and by other prominent teachers brought to Madison for the occasion. There are to be no solo events this year, with the exception of piano, violin and cello. Emphasis is to be placed upon small ensemble groups with a view to stimulating both individual playing and ensemble performance.

THIRD PAIR OF TWINS
ARRIVE IN FIVE YEARS

Burlington—(P)—The third pair of twins within five years arrived Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Maurice of Burlington. The birth of the twins, a boy and a girl, gave Mr. and Mrs. Maurice a third son and a third daughter.

ning to meet with Winnebago Chapter to arrange for the joint installation of officers to be conducted Friday evening at Oshkosh. The local officers will be accompanied to Oshkosh by a large delegation of members.

The Catholic Daughters of America made preliminary arrangements for the initiation of several candidates on Tuesday evening, April 24, at their meeting Tuesday evening. The ceremony will be followed by a dinner. Arrangements also were made for a rummage sale Thursday, April 19, and for a fruit sale in Neenah later in the month.

Menasha club will hold its annual Easter ginner dance Wednesday evening. Dinner will be served at Hotel Menasha, followed by dancing at the clubrooms. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Senzenbrenner are chairman of the committee in charge.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will celebrate their seventh anniversary next Friday evening with a supper at Eagle hall. A supper will be followed by cards.

STATE HAS 16 MILLION
BALANCE IN TREASURY

Madison—(P)—The balance in the state treasury on April 1, amounted to $16,073,968.41, a tabulation from the treasury department showed Wednesday. This compared to a balance of $12,213,371 on March 1.

The largest balance was in the general fund—$12,612,276, compared with $9,983,897. In the school fund the balance was $1,121,408 whereas on March 1, it amounted to only $232,336. Other large balances on April 1 were:

School fund income, $502,541.66; Normal school fund, $144,433.09; State Insurance fund, $146,557.75; University Trust fund, $54,917.05; Teachers' Ind. and Retirement fund, $310,515.68, and the Conservation fund, $472,903.29.

DUNLOP'S

"WHAT OF IT?... Dunlop's resources may be $195,000,000. Does that put any money in my pocket?"

Yes... In this way... Dunlop's investment is so great, it must be safeguarded. The only sure protection is to give you greater value than you can buy in any other tires.

Then, too... the nine mammoth plants... the far-flung rubber plantations... the great spinning mills... such resources enable Dunlop to build extra value into your tires.

REED'S BATTLE TO KEEP IN POLITICS EXCELLED BY NONE

Fiery Missouri Senator Has Staged Greatest Political "Come Back" of All Time

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on the outstanding presidential candidate, written especially for The Post-Crescent and NEA Service by Robert Talley. A second article on Senator Reed will appear tomorrow.

BY ROBERT TALLEY

Washington—Eight years ago he was rotten-legged in Ardmore, Okla., condemned by the North Carolina legislature as "a traitor who ought to be shot," threatened with being ridden out of town on a rail in Arkansas, upbraided by millions in his own party and even denied a seat in the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco.

Today, Senator Jim Reed, the fiery Missourian, is a leading candidate for the presidency, with a record of one of the greatest "comebacks" in the history of politics.

In place of the "Rid Us of Reed" clubs that swarmed in his state in 1920, there are now active organizations working for his nomination.

THE FIGHT FOR EVERYTHING

The real story of Jim Reed is the story of his fight with Woodrow Wilson over the League of Nations. It was a clash of political giants, bitter with hatred on both sides and trailed by inflated public opinion.

Reed sits in the senate today, known as a man who is rugged, honest and utterly fearless. He has many good attributes, but there is nothing lovable about him despite his grandfatherly appearance. He is a bitter fighter who neither asks nor gives any quarter; in the heat of debate his face distorts in a snarling mask, his clenched fists quiver, his words sting his enemies like poisoned arrows.

"Fighting... fighting... fighting; everything I've ever got in this world I've had to fight for," he once said.

IS STILL FIGHTING

And that is true. Orphaned when eight by the death of his father, he and an older brother had to fight to support their widowed mother on a farm in Iowa, to which the family had moved after his birth in Mansfield, Ohio, in 1861.

He fought to get an education during the three months of the winter that the country schools ran, he fought to continue his studies at Coe College, he fought poverty to study law in a lawyer's office, he fought his way into politics, he fought his way to the mayor's office at Kansas City for two terms and in 1910 he fought his way into the U. S. Senate. And, after 18 years as a member of that body, and at the age of 66, he still is fighting.

The silver-haired veteran is, not only one of the most eloquent men in the Senate, but also one of the most elegant. He always looks as if he had just stepped out of a handbox—clothes faultlessly tailored, collar and cuffs immaculate, a beautiful tie fixed just so, nails gleaming from a fresh manicure. He is one of the Senate's Chesterfields.

Reed decided to become a lawyer when he was 10 years old. A farm boy, he chanced one day into a courtroom at Cedar Rapids, Ia., and watched in silent admiration as two county lawyers tore each other to tatters in a bit of frenzied litigation over a dog. It fired his youthful imagination.

A half century and more has rolled by since that day, but Senator Reed still tells that story. The details of that famous law suit have come down to posterity, although nothing more is known of the dog.

Education completed, he sold a horse for $125 to buy a law library and was admitted to the bar at 24. At 27, he married Miss Lura M. Olmstead and, seeking never and brighter fields, moved from Cedar Rapids to Kansas City.

IS GOOD SPEAKER

In Kansas City, Reed hung out his law shingle. There were lean years with few clients, but his ability as a speechmaker began to win him fame in political circles. So, in 1896, he was appointed county attorney—his first political office.

For two years he was prosecuting attorney and the record shows that he prosecuted 237 cases and got 285 convictions. How the other two escaped is still a mystery.

"There is nothing remarkable about that record," Reed says. "I never prosecuted a man until I had convinced myself that he was guilty. And then I went after him with everything I had."

The year 1900 found him beginning his first term as mayor of Kansas City, to be followed in 1902 by a second. His administration went after the public utilities and secured many beneficial concessions in the way of reduced rates for the people. He also was the first mayor to force a street railway to bear the cost of street paving between its tracks.

BEATEN AT POLLS

In 1904 Reed retired as mayor and ran for governor against Joe Folk. He was beaten. That may or may not have disheartened him, but at any

WARDENS PUT STOP TO SPEARING OF FISH

The spearing of pike and pickerel in the Fox river between Stroobes' landing and the Menasha bridge has been stopped, due to the arrival of game wardens on the upper Fox river and the weather conditions of the past weekend, according to Louise Jeske, game warden.

Several men have been placed under observation and it is expected that two arrests will be made within the next few days. Two arrests were made at Fremont Saturday, Mr. Jeske said.

PREDICT NO GOOD FROM TARIFF QUIZ

Statement Sent Local Man Says Damages Would Offset Small Benefits

A report of the National Association of Manufacturers shows that although from 10 to 12 percent of all goods manufactured in this country are exported, those figures are but little, if any, higher than before the World war, according to A. H. Wickesberg, treasurer of the Appleton Woolen Mills. During the war period, the exports ran as high as 16 percent.

Extracts from the report state that under the present tariff law the United States admit a greater volume of free imports than any other country except England. It further states that America actually levies duty on considerably less than 40 percent of our total imports, nearly one half being levied for the protection of agriculture, while about 20 percent of the levy is on such luxuries as costly rugs, furs and precious stones, leaving a comparatively inconsiderable amount for discussion by congress in attempts to lower the tariff.

In commenting on diffusion of property interest in the United States, it was stated that returns for 1925 disclose that, whereas 10 years ago about 94 percent of the dividend payments made in the United States went to people with less than $10,000 of income, today more than 26 percent of the dividend payments of the United States go to that class and 74 percent of all the dividend payments go to persons with an annual income of less than $1,000; 40 percent of income derived from investment is going to people with incomes of less than $10,000, and more than 46 1/2 percent of all the income derived from rents and royalties is going into the same class.

SCOUT LEADERS MEET

Plans for troop rating will be discussed at a meeting of the scout leaders of the Fox river valley council at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the scout office. The placement of scoutmasters in the camp also will be discussed.

rate he quit politics for six years and engaged in the practice of law. In 1910, he returned to the political arena to oppose David R. Francis for the Senate. Francis, unhappily for him, had bolted Bryan in 1896 and Reed made the most of it. Reed was elected to the Senate where he has served ever since.

Years rolled by, the World War was fought and won, and then came Reed's bitter battle with Woodrow Wilson over the League of Nations which, it seemed then, had wrecked Jim Reed's chances for all time.

They said Jim Reed sat up late at night just to hate Woodrow Wilson—but that bitter merciless and historic clash, and what followed, is another story.

WINTER AND SUMMER WEATHER REPORTED IN MONTH OF MARCH

Thunder, With Accompanied Storm on 12th, Was First Time in 40 Years

Temperatures during the month of March fluctuated from below zero to ideal spring weather, according to B. B. Whittier, Green Bay meteorologist. The month was practically normal in both temperature and precipitation, being but 8 degrees above the normal in temperature and exactly normal in precipitation.

The mean temperature for the month was 29.4 degrees. The month was characterized by strongly fluctuating temperature, as is usual at this time of the year, but no records of any kind were approached. The lowest temperature recorded during the month was 4 degrees below zero, on the fifth, and the highest was 67 degrees on the twenty-fifth.

The precipitation totalled 2.40 inches, and the snowfall 9.7 inches. The principal precipitation period was between the 8th and 13th, when 1.75 inches fell, including a moderately heavy snowstorm on the 8th and 9th, and a heavy rain on the 12th and 13th. Thunder occurred with the storm on the 12th and 13th, and again on the 25th and 26th. Thunder during the past 40 years has averaged but once during March. Had fell for a few minutes on the evening of the 12th.

The prevailing wind direction was west, the wind blowing from that direction two more hours than from the north. The average hourly velocity was 10.3 miles, which is nearly normal. The highest velocity during the month was 35 miles an hour from the northwest on the 4th.

The cloudiness was decidedly less than normal, being but 48 per cent, whereas the normal for March is 63 per cent. Consequently the sunshine was above normal, with the sun shining 71 per cent of the possible time, whereas the normal for March is but 58 per cent.

FACTS ABOUT WISCONSIN

Wisconsin dairymen received an average price of $2.11 per hundred pounds for milk during the year 1927. This is the highest price on record since 1920 when the average for twelve months was $2.06. Last year's monthly price average showed an upward trend from $1.98 in May to $2.35 in December, however, while in 1920 prices dropped steadily from $2.62 in May to $2.22 in December. During nine months of last year the average price of milk exceeded $2.00 per hundred. Only five months during 1927 showed an average price of $2.00 and to the $2.00 or more class. This indicates a 1927 price advance of about 10 per cent over 1926 and 11 per cent over 1925. The last available report from which county price and production figures may be secured is for 1925, when the state average price paid was $1.90 per hundred. The highest average that year was $2.68 per hundred received by the seven counties located in the extreme southeastern corner of Wisconsin. Five of these seven counties were the only corner in the state to receive an average price of more than $2.00 per hundred for their milk. The top price counties were: Kenosha, $2.24; Milwaukee, $2.19; Walworth, $2.14; Waukesha, $2.10 and Ozaukee, $2.04. The 27 counties comprising the highly industrialized eastern judicial district showed an average price of $1.94 for the year, while the 41 counties comprising the western judicial district averaged $1.81. Dane County ranked first in milk production with 308,520,000 pounds which sold for $7,577,550. Dodge County was second with 283,010,000 pounds which sold for $7,239,456. Marathon County was third with 339,569,000 pounds selling for $6,319,732 and Clark County was fourth with 238,640,000 pounds for $4,111,568. Dane County had 67,200 head. Marathon County had 63,500 head and Clark County had 63,200 head. In the whole state 10,052,830,000 pounds of milk was produced by 1,971,200 cows and sold for $191,023,862 in 1927.

DELAY SUBWAY WORK UNTIL AFTER HEARING

Entire Wisconsin-ave Project Hinges on Whether Lines Are to Be Torn Up

There is little indication that any work will be done on the proposed E Wisconsin-ave subway under the tracks of the Chicago and North Western railway tracks and the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company until after the hearing at Neenah Wednesday on abandonment of the power company's car lines between Neenah and Kaukauna.

The railroad company has completed the false work for its tracks and has taken its men off the job. While the entire project probably hinges on the outcome of the power company's petition to abandon lines, the company has practically completed plans for its abutments.

SINCLAIR'S COMPLAINTS

Has Harry F. Sinclair, now on trial at the city of Washington, a just cause for complaint?

Sinclair has learned that silence is golden and his "million dollar battery" of legal counsel is doing the talking and complaining for him. Their particular complaint is that the whole country from the president down is "hounding" Sinclair, and in particular they complain that congress has, on three occasions, "changed the laws of the nation with one purpose only in mind and that is to get Sinclair, to convict him, to "railroad" him to prison.

Congress has in truth enacted three measures and while, of course, they are drawn in general terms they do have specific application to Sinclair, his criminal trial, as well as the general topic of the oil scandal.

In the first place as soon as exposure was evident Blackmer and O'Neil, officers of the dummy company, The Continental Trading Company of Canada, left the country and have been living ever since at various places in Europe. Their purpose was too evident. It was to escape the subpoena of the United States, to avoid the compulsion of answering questions. It is strange that some men will openly or tacitly be parties to the bribery of a public official and yet hesitate to commit perjury. What could be easier, they thought, than simply getting out of the country and staying out of it until the storm blew over. If they were in France or Italy the subpoena of the United States government could not reach them. In this situation congress enacted a law making it the duty of United States citizens abroad to submit to an examination, or in other words to give their deposition, when so required, before United States consular officers and coupling a failure to comply with a fine of $100,000. It could not put on a penalty of imprisonment such as would be possible to lay upon a recalcitrant witness at home because the witness himself was without the country. This fine, has already been assessed against Blackmer but O'Neil is still concealing his whereabouts.

Sinclair's next complaint is because congress found a way to compel Fall's son-in-law, Everhard, who, delivered the bonds, to testify. When this man was first called to the witness stand he refused to give evidence on the ground that the answer would tend to incriminate him, a justifiable objection because he was in truth a factor in, if not an active member of, the conspiracy. So congress reduced the statute of limitations against conspirators in such cases to three years. Everhard could no longer raise his objection and now must give his evidence as he has already given it before the Walsh committee. It is damaging to Sinclair.

Congress went further and passed another act taking from the attorneys in a case the right of examination of prospective jurors touching their qualifications and putting that right into the hands of the court. In former trials a great deal of time, sometimes going into many weeks, was exhausted in the mere examination of prospective jurors. The tendency is to wear the government out in tiresome proceedings. Congress has not denied the right of an accused person to become acquainted with the qualifications to serve of those who are to try him. It is attempting to prevent abuses of that right.

There is no doubt that when congress passed these three measures the Sinclair situation was in mind. The laws were not passed to harass Sinclair nor to convict an innocent man. They were passed for the purpose of trying to get at the truth concerning a guilty man who was using every possible contrivance to prevent the government from exposing the truth. A poor man cannot send witnesses who may be used against him to Europe for a three or four years' vacation. Neither can he pay lawyers to stay in court week after week frittering away time putting thousands of needless questions and attempting to create a cobweb of confusion. Sinclair is entitled to a fair trial the same as everyone else. He is entitled to no more.

And while Senator Reed who spoke hereabouts, and the Blaine organization of Wisconsin, have been telling the people that President Coolidge has done little or nothing to bring the oil criminals to trial and conviction, they failed to tell the people that the president affixed his signature to each one of these laws knowing full well its purpose, and without which signature, the measures would have failed.

It took the trial court a little over three hours to examine prospective jurors concerning their qualifications. The jury consists of the ordinary run of people, a steamfitter, a floor man, two grocers, some merchants and so on. Yet, we have no doubt that if this jury exonerates Sinclair, the people of Wisconsin will be told in the next campaign that it was "Wall Street," "the interests," "the power trust," President Coolidge, Governor Zimmerman or anyone else who may at the time be under attack.

AN ERROR OF JUDGMENT

Seemingly Chicago has been almost helpless in the wave of murderous bombings and kindred offences screwed up to a peak as the election approached.

And then something happened.

In the excitement of the times, the potency of the liquor, or the enthusiasm of the work, one or more of the bombers made an unforgivable blunder. The home of a senator of the United States was rocked upon its foundation by a dynamite explosion. Now the federal court at Chicago has convened a grand jury, the usual matter of procedure still prevailing in that court. Its purpose is to make inquiry and, sufficient evidence appearing, to return indictments, upon which the accused of course will be arrested and brought to the bar of justice.

Judge Wilkerson called the attention of the grand jury to the fact that the laws of the United States punish persons for conspiring to prevent, by force, intimidation or threat, any person from discharging any duty arising under any office of the United States as well as to injure him in his person or property while engaged in the lawful discharge of the duties of his office or on account thereof. And since the Chicago election contains a primary slip having to do with the nomination of senators and representatives of the United States another section of the federal code is applicable, that defining it to be a criminal act when men conspire to injure or threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the constitution or laws of the United States, of which voting is one.

Well might those in the bombing business in Chicago take heed. They were not well versed in the federal laws or they would never have interfered in the election of a federal officer. The last thing they want anything to do with is the federal courts.

The reason is obvious to anyone.

A PERJURED LADY

A woman in Cleveland has been sentenced to a year in a reformatory for perjury in seeking a divorce. She fainted three times in rapid succession when the sentence was pronounced. Her attorneys were astounded. They are taking every possible legal step, of course, to block payment of the penalty.

Several hundred thousand people gasped when they read about it. There is an air of nervousness about the courthouse ever since that thunderclap. Some people say it is a heavy punishment. It is. If it were imposed on all the principals and witnesses who have been committing perjury in lawsuits, the country's reformatories and jails would be spilling over. On the other hand, a few such sentences would probably make it unnecessary to send any more people to jail for that offense for a while.

They're selling theater tickets in London on the installment plan now. If the price of seats continues to go up in this country, pretty soon you'll have to offer a first mortgage on the home as a down payment.

A Chicago judge decided a marriage performed by a captain on the high seas was valid and binding as long as both parties wished it to remain so. A sort of marriage a la companionway.

It's hard to be serious these days, but if you want to see an old-fashioned, conventional expression come over a man's face, just ask him how he makes his home brew.

A doctor says there is very little danger of infection from metal cooking utensils. But of course you have to take care of any wound.

Secretary Davis says there are 1,574,650 idle men in the country. Probably with radio announcers excepted.

Jungle law rules the coal industry, says an operator. And with perhaps a blind tiger here and there in it, too.

WHAT GIRLS SHOULD KNOW

For several years I have been sending to girls who told me they were 15 years old a letter giving essential facts about human life and its origin. I have not sent the information to girls under that age unless by request of parent or guardian. All this time, although I have endeavored to use fair discription, there have been some doubt in my mind about the whole business, and this has prompted me to ask some girls who wrote for this advice, or their mothers, to criticize my advice confidentially.

Lately it has dawned on me that few such criticisms have come in. Probably I have not envisaged that fact before, because of the suspicion that both girls and their mothers may hesitate to criticize my teachings, from motives of false modesty, just consciousness or ignorance of the subject. But it came to a decision the other day when I ran out of these letters and drew up a new one for printing. Before printing it I submitted it to a layman whose views and opinions of such things I value. He looked it over and said he didn't think he'd want his daughter to receive the information or instruction in such form. That is enough for me. I am not offering such information or instruction to girls from now on—that is, unless mothers convince me that this mere father was wrong. I am still prepared to furnish proper sex instruction to boys 15 years old.

The best help I know for parents who wish to give little boys or girls (especially children under 8 years of age) fair instruction or honest answers to curious questions from the very first, as a pamphlet issued by the public health bureau, called "The Wonderful Story of Life." You can buy this from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., at 5 cents a copy.

Formerly I recommended a book with a title something like "Guide for Fathers." This book is no longer available in a form I can recommend.

Mothers with daughters 12 to 14 years of age will find "Margaret the Doctor's Daughter" helpful. This is a pamphlet you can buy for 25 cents from the American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill. The same publisher issues an excellent pamphlet for girls 13 to 18 years old, called "Girls' Problems," and also for boys, called "Boys' Problems," both costing 25 cents. "Margaret the Doctor's Daughter" is somewhat antique in the hygiene or physiology it teaches, but nevertheless a valuable guide for the wholesome instruction of any girl.

In the patriotic spasm of wartime, the United States government usually a great tightwad about these health publications, loosened up and published series of pamphlets on sex hygiene for general distribution. One set was for boys and young men; another for parents; another for teachers; another for young women. Whether these are still available I do not know. Perhaps the spasm is over now. They were distributed free of charge, by most state departments of health, and by the office of the public health service, Washington, D. C.

The great consistency of advice I find in force. It baffles most of my own feeble efforts. I hate to acknowledge defeat but I am afraid we are whipped. The parents are not voting, but my impression is that they prefer to let things drift along as they are, and let the younger generation meet the black dragon as the parents themselves had to meet it, blindfolded and unarmed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Boards—L. H. Hard Boiled
I do not like the way American people boil their coffee (it is bitter). I showed the people I boar with your method of making coffee, they tried it and are quite satisfied it is the best way, but some of the boards complain because they are so accustomed to having their coffee bitter. (A. O. B.)

Answer—Probably the boards feel they have to keep the old stomach thoroughly tanned, so it can stand the nations. Boiling, even for a minute, only drives off the pleasing aroma and brings out the inky flavor of tannic acid. However, that's the way some folks like it. A lot of misguided people in America take their coffee by inhalation, and it certainly does smell good boiling, but kosh, when you come to drink the diabolical fluid that remains in the pot! No feeling, I believe it is a good deal to do with booze and divorce. I believe in some philanthropist—and it would require a philanthropist—would establish coffee shops or kitchens throughout the community, to compete with alleged soft drinkeries and speakeries, he could do a world of good. We've got to stop boiling the coffee somehow.

Children Like Raw Peas

Our children, aged 4 and 5, are very fond of raw peas, and whenever I prepare the peas for dinner I let them eat some raw, a few podsful. My husband recently read of some child dying from eating raw peas. . . . (Mrs. H. M. L.)

Answer—Nevertheless, I'd give the children a generous handful of raw peas, or any other raw vegetable, if I believe it is a good deal to do with booze and divorce. I believe in some philanthropist—and it would require a philanthropist—would establish coffee shops or kitchens throughout the community, to compete with alleged soft drinkeries and speakeries, he could do a world of good. We've got to stop boiling the coffee somehow.

I am glad to say that the dithermy treatments you suggested have helped me wonderfully. You suggested treatment for Raynaud's disease ("dead fingers") in answer to Mrs. W. J. in your column. (Mrs. A. G.)

Answer—Yes, dithermy is the best treatment I know for the trouble. Good physicians everywhere have the dithermy equipment and the skill necessary for its use.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, April 15, 1903
The Chicago Master Bakers association at Chicago decided not to increase the price of bread to six cents a loaf.

The White House children were quarantined because Archie Roosevelt had the measles. The Kimberly-Clark mill agreed to operate beginning the following Saturday under the short hours, nine paper machines making book papers. The other mills were still to be heard from.

Miss Attie M. Paer, who had been visiting relatives in Indiana the previous week, had returned home the previous day.

The farmers had done no seeding so far that year.

The Christian Endeavor society of First Congregational church was to celebrate its twentieth anniversary the following Friday evening at 8 o'clock with a banquet.

TEN YEARS AGO

Wednesday, April 10, 1918
The Senate that day passed the addition bill which imposed a penalty of 20 years in prison and $10,000 fine on disloyalists and anti-American propagandists. This penalty applied to anyone who spoke or wrote anything favoring the cause of Germany.

Daniel F. Steinhilber was at Burnhamwood on business that week.

Miss Emma Luckel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Luckel, Superior, and the Rev. E. H. Bruns, were married the previous evening. Miss Anna Luckel and John Bruns were the attendants. The annual declamatory contest between pupils of the third and fifth ward schools were to be held the following evening. Those who were to take part were John Ryan, Glenway Jantz, Laura Boldt and Ethel Vezer. Third ward: Robert Thompson, Grace Jabs, Muriel Snodgrass and Hazel Wichman, Fifth ward.

The Way of the Transgressor

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

A NEGRO WHO DEFIED NAPOLEON

A beautifully printed book came to my desk the other day by a writer whose work I was unfamiliar with, about a character I had never heard of although only a hundred years or so ago he was in his way a powerful king. But this book by an unknown (to me) about an unknown was an advertisement for a book I feel like recommending to all who delight in beautiful books.

It is called "Black Majesty" and is by John W. Vandercook, the author of "Tom-Tom," which had some vogue but which I had missed. It is a biography, or at least purports to be, of a large print and more than all He knew he had more brains than all the rest of his country put together, and so it seemed right to him that what he said should be done, merely because he said it. Napoleon went through practically the same transformation. He too rose through sheer ability and he came to feel that anything he did was right because he had more brains than others.

Napoleon ended his life in exile and Henry Christophe ended his with a golden bullet fired in his own hand when his people turned on him and decided to put an end to his despotism. It is a tragic story and a vivid one. Vandercook has done something that seems very much worth doing.

victim to identically the same weakness that destroyed Napoleon and that all through history destroyed powerful men — lust for arbitrary control over the multitudes, the kind of control that Lincoln said no man has a right to exercise over other men.

Henry Christophe rose from nothing to supreme power in Haiti. It is not even known where he was born. He rose because he had the ability. For a time he was a blessing to his people. Presently he became drunk with power and the ruler was transformed into the despot. He came to feel that his commands must be law. He knew he had more brains than all the rest of his country put together, and so it seemed right to him that what he said should be done, merely because he said it. Napoleon went through practically the same transformation. He too rose through sheer ability and he came to feel that anything he did was right because he had more brains than others.

Q. When was the first peace movement? C. E. T.

A. While suggestions of a movement toward peace are to be found in classical literature and in writings of the early churchmen, the first effort toward world peace was initiated by the King of Bohemia in 1462. He advanced a plan for a federation of Christian nations, having an international parliament to discuss matters of common interest and a tribunal, backed by international military forces, to hear and decide all disputes between nations.

BRITAIN GIVES PENSION TO 11,563 BLIND FOLK

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In connection with its insurance scheme, the British government passed in 1920 a blind persons act under which 11,563 blind persons between the ages of 60 and 70 now receive government pensions.

In addition, attempts are being made to aid younger people through establishment of centers in which the blind may be given opportunity to work and to learn. During 1926 and 1927 more than a half million dollars was spent on workshops, home workers, home teaching and booklets.

PREVENTIVE EFFORT

Apparently there is a slight decrease in the number of blind persons under the age of 21, which may represent some of the success of the attempts now in operation in all the civilized world for the prevention of blindness among infants.

Among favorite occupations for blind workers is piano tuning. Because of the ease of the occupation, however, and the relatively high financial return, numerous incompetent people were attracted to the profession so that it was necessary to establish limitations of those undertaking this work.

BLIND CHILDREN

It is estimated that about 0.5 of children under the age of 5 are blind. There are furthermore 7000 partially blind children in England and Wales, of whom only 1600 are receiving institutional attention to permit them to secure proper occupations.

Undoubtedly, the figures of the United States will closely approximate those of Great Britain. The greatest help that might be given to either the blind or the partly blind is an education which would enable them to earn funds efficiently for their own support.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — Style sleuthing is one of New York's busiest occupations. Just as a detective hunts down his man, or a baseball scout purues his rookie, or a book collector tracks down his rare editions, just so the style sleuth bobs up wherever well-dressed women are likely to gather.

First nights at Broadway theaters are favorite camping grounds both of the legitimate handicappers of modes and those sartorial harpies who leap on any new idea, carrying it off to their dressmaking emporiums, and, almost before the break of dawn, begin to turn out copies and near copies.

The "stylish" are, perhaps, the most powerful figures behind the fashion thrones. Every important Manhattan store rests upon the verdict of these folk who go everywhere and anywhere over the earth, turning up with ideas and suggestions which, within a few months, become the outstanding styles of a nation.

"You'll find 'stylish' everywhere. You'll see them in the hotel lobbies and at the theaters, in the fashionable music halls and at the teas. Many of them are extraordinarily young, slender, lovely youngsters who seem scarcely out of their teens, who affect an oh-so-English accent and try so hard to appear grown-up. Yet in spite of all this pseudo-worldliness they have to know what the public is likely to want. They have to build a "snappy department."

A certain sense of adventure underlies this seemingly very frilly and feminine occupation. There is the same zest for a "scoop" that marks the activities of a newspaper reporter. There is the keen desire to be first to introduce a novelty. On the surface none of this sense of competition can be seen. The actions are marked by the polite reserve and uniformity by social practices. They must observe all the rules of etiquette since they attempt to mingle in the best social circles.

Some of them achieve great reputations as early as, though they remain anonymous to the thousands of well-dressed women across the country who come to wear the things they have selected. One successful coupe puts their salary at a nice figure.

The most recent addition to this assemblage is the "ensembleist." To date there is but one even in Manhattan. He's a fellow who deals directly with wholesalers and manufacturers. He studies wall paper, furniture, rugs, tables, perfume bottles, curtains, hangings, paintings and what not in order to get some sort of uniformity in color and design. He advises the wall paper maker to tint his paper to agree with certain new tones in rugs or furniture, that the buyer may have a tasteful ensemble when he arranges his home.

This fellow is a step above the interior decorator, who merely tells you what to buy and how to place it. The professor of ensembles takes action even as the materials, whether they be table runners or napkins, are being designed.

Dr. Van Dyke in his chapter called "Going Up to Jerusalem" says: "There were few trees, except now and then an olive orchard, or a round-topped carob with its withered pods."

Q. What is the Prince of Wales's address? D. E. S.

A. The address of the Prince of Wales is Marlborough House, London, England.

Q. We read of Culebra Cut. What does "Culebra" mean? A. N.

A. The word means snake. The Cut is now named in honor of Col. Gaulard.

Q. What is French pastry? D. E. S.

A. French pastry is a term used for a platter of mixed individual fancy cakes, such as eclairs, fruit tarts, mocha cake, Napoleons, Pont Neuf cakes, and cream puffs.

Q. What system is used by the Japanese to dwarf pine trees? N. E.

A. The system used by the Japanese to dwarf pine trees is kept secret by them.

Q. Where is the original of a picture called "Bambino"? A. D. S.

A. This picture is a copy of one of the medallions of foundlings on the Foundlings Hospital, at Florence, Italy, made by the famous sculptor, Andrea Della Robbia.

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE, Author of "The Benson Murder Case"

PHILO VANCE, District Attorney of New York County
MARGARET ODELL, THE "CANARY"
CHARLES CLEAVER, a manufacturer
KENNETH SPOTSWOODE, a manufacturer
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer
DR. AMBROISE LINDQUIST, a fashionable neurologist
TONY SKEEL, a professional burglar
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator
HARRY SPIVELY, telephone operator
ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau

I had a longing to see the Monets and Durand-Ruel's this afternoon, and I was afraid I wasn't going to be able to drag myself away from this fascinating case. Now that the apocalypse has been definitely scheduled for tomorrow, I'll indulge my taste for Impressionism. . . . A detain, Markham. By-bye, Sergeant."

(Sunday, Sept. 16, 10 a. m.)
 A fine drizzle was falling the next morning when we rose; and a chill—the first forerunner of winter—was in the air. We had breakfast in the library at half past eight, and at nine o'clock Vance's car—which had been ordered the night before—called for us.

THE STORY THUS FAR
 Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that Mannix, Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist all had been lying about their whereabouts the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a young lady in an apartment adjoining the "Canary's"; that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing that Spotswoode was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him. But this plan was frustrated when Spotswoode jumped into a cab. Later a street cleaner finds Margaret Odell's jewels wrapped in a newspaper. The paper has punctures in it, suggesting that it came off a club reading rack.

CHAPTER XXXIX
 When Swacker appeared, he asked that the club's steward be got immediately on the telephone. After a short delay, the connection was made. At the end of five minutes' conversation Markham hung up the receiver and gave Heath a baffled look.

"The club takes two Heralds. Both of yesterday copies are there, on the rack."

"Didn't Cleaver once tell us he read nothing but The Herald—that and some racing-sheet at night?" Vance put the question offhandedly.

"I believe he did," Markham considered the suggestion. "Still, both the club Heralds are accounted for."

He turned to Heath. "When you were checking up on Mannix, did you find out what clubs he belonged to?"

"Sure." The sergeant took out his note-book and rifled the pages for a minute or two. "He's a member of the Furriers and the Cosmopolis."

Markham pushed the telephone toward him.

"See what you can find out." Heath was fifteen minutes at the task.

"A blank," he announced finally. "The Furriers don't use holders, and the Cosmopolis don't keep any back numbers."

"What about Mr. Skeel's clubs, Sergeant?" asked Vance, smiling.

"Oh, I know the finding of that jewelry guns up my theory about Skeel," said Heath, with surly ill-nature. "But what's the good of rubbing it in? Still, if you think I'm going to give the bird a clean bill of health just because the Odell swag was found in a trash-can, you're mighty mistaken. Don't forget we're watching the Dude pretty close. He may have got lost and tipped off some pal he's cached the jewels with."

"I rather fancy the experienced Skeel would have turned his booty over to a professional receiver. But even had he passed it on to a friend, would this friend have been likely to throw it away because Skeel was worried?"

"Maybe not. But there's some explanation for those jewels being found, and when we get hold of it, it won't eliminate Skeel."

"No; the explanation won't eliminate Skeel," said Vance; "but—my word—how it'll change his standing."

Heath contemplated him with shrewdly appraising eyes. Something in Vance's tone had apparently piqued his curiosity and set him to wondering. Vance had too often been right in his diagnoses of persons and things for the sergeant to ignore his opinions wholly.

But before he could answer, Swacker stepped alertly into the room, his eyes animated.

"Tony Skeel's on the wire, Chief, and wants to speak to you."

Markham, despite his habitual reserve, gave a start.

"Here, Sergeant," he said quickly. "Take that extension phone on the table and listen in."

He nodded curtly to Swacker, who disappeared to make the connection. Then he took up the receiver of his own telephone and spoke to Skeel.

For a minute or so he listened. Then, after a brief argument, he concurred with some suggestion that had evidently been made; and the conversation ended.

"Skeel craves an audience, I gather," said Vance. "I've rather been expecting it, y' know."

"Yes. He's coming here tomorrow at ten."

"And he hinted that he knew who slew the Canary—eh, what?"

"That's just what he did say. He promised to tell me the whole story tomorrow morning."

"But, Mr. Markham," said Heath, who still sat with his hand on the telephone, gazing at the instrument with dazed incredulity. "I don't see why you don't have him brought here today."

"As you heard, Sergeant, Skeel insisted on tomorrow, and threatened to say nothing if I forced the issue. It's just as well not to antagonize him. We might spoil a good chance of getting some light on this case if I order him brought here and used pressure. And tomorrow suits me. It'll be quiet around here then. Moreover, your man's watching Skeel, and he won't get away."

"I guess you're right, sir. The Dude's touchy, and he can give a swell imitation of an oyster when he feels like it." The sergeant spoke with feeling.

"I'll have Swacker here tomorrow to take down his statement," Markham went on; "and you'd better put one of your men on the elevator—the regular operator is off Sundays. Also, plant a man in the hall outside, and put another one in Swacker's office."

"Most considerate of the gentleman to call up at this time, don't y' know."

We rode down Fifth Avenue, now almost deserted in its thick blanket of yellow fog, and called for Markham at his apartment in West 12th Street. He was waiting for us in front of the house, and stepped quickly into the car with scarcely a word of greeting. From his anxious, preoccupied look I knew that he was depending a good deal on what Skeel had to tell him.

We had turned into West Broadway beneath the Elevated tracks before any of us spoke. Then Markham voiced a doubt which was plainly an articulation of his troubled ruminations.

"I'm wondering if, after all, this fellow Skeel can have any important information to give us. His phone call was very strange. Yet he spoke confidently enough regarding his knowledge. No dramatics, no request for immunity—just a plain, assured statement that he knew who murdered the Odell girl, and had decided to come clean."

"It's certain he himself didn't strangle the lady," pronounced Vance. "My theory, as you saw, is that he was hiding in the clothes-press when the sharp business was being enacted; and all along I've clung lovingly to the idea that he was an secret to the entire proceedings."

"The keyhole of that closet door is on a direct line with the end of the davenport where the lady was strangled; and if a rival was operating at the time of his concealment, it's not unreasonable to assume that he peered forth—eh, what? I questioned him on this point, you remember; and he didn't like it a bit."

"But, in that case—"

"Oh, I know. There are all kinds of erudite objections to my wild dream. Why didn't he give the alarm? Why didn't he tell us about it before? Why didn't he and why that? . . . I make no claim to omniscience, y' know; I don't even pretend to have a logical explanation. My theory is only sketched in, as it were. But I'm convinced, nevertheless, that the modish Tony knows who killed his bona roba and looted her apartment."

"But of the three persons who possibly could have got into the Odell apartment that night—namely, Skeel, Cleaver and Lindquist—Skeel evidently knows only one—Mannix."

"Yes—to be sure. And Mannix, it would seem, is the only one of the trio who knows Skeel. . . . An interesting point."

Heath met us at the Franklin Street entrance to the criminal courts building. He, too, was anxious and subdued, and he shook hands with us in a detached manner devoid of his usual heartiness.

"I've got Smithkin running the elevator," he said after the briefest of salutations. "Burke's in the hall upstairs, and Emery is with him, waiting to be let into Swacker's office."

We entered the deserted and almost silent building and rode up to the fourth floor. Markham unlocked his office door and we passed in.

"Guilfoyle, the man who's trailing Skeel," Heath explained, when we were seated, "is to report by phone to the homicide bureau as soon as the Dude leaves his rooms."

It was now twenty minutes to ten. Five minutes later Swacker arrived. Taking his stenographic notebook, he stationed himself just inside of the swinging door of Markham's private sanctum, where he could hear all that was said without being seen. Markham lit a cigar, and Heath followed suit.

Vance was already smoking placidly. He was the calmest person in the room, and lay back languorously in one of the great leather chairs as though immune to all cares and vicissitudes. But I could tell by the over-deliberate way he flicked his ashes into the receiver that he, too, was uneasy.

Five or six minutes passed in conversation.

June 23, 1925, Hurley was found dead on the lake near the home which had previously been used at some time by Deerpok. Deerpok, who had been in Cudahy, Milwaukee suburb, a few days before, had been seen in the vicinity. No motive for the crime was found, the gun with which Hurley was killed was never located.

It was found, however, that Hurley had spent the night in a hotel in a nearby town, with another man some days previous. Then the socks were found. The laundry mark was at first thought to be "J. D." but on examination in the daylight was found to be "CD" Deerpok's initials. Deerpok did not establish to the satisfaction of the jury his whereabouts at the time of the shooting. About an hour after the case was given to the jury it reported, finding that Deerpok was the slayer.

The American Legion or veterans organization in which Deerpok was a member took up his case some time after he started serving his life sentence. The state supreme court first refused his attorney's writ of error, but yesterday heard arguments on the case in the form of a rehearing.

The attorney said that the high court must either:

Free Deerpok entirely, as the high court sits as a jury in this case.

Order a new trial of the whole case.

Affirm the decision in the lower court, or dismissed the case, which would be equivalent of the last previous decision.

The court's views on the laundry mark were granted to be a deciding factor in Deerpok's future.

CONVICTION HINGES ON LAUNDRY MARK

Man Serving Life Sentence for Murder May Be Victim of Circumstances

Madison—(AP)—Upon the laundry mark a pair of socks may depend the fortune and future of a man.

In the case of Chris Deerpok, now serving a life sentence for killing Guy Hurley in a lonely summer home on the shores of Little Lake in Bayfield-co, the state supreme court argument centered Friday around the laundry mark "CD" on a pair of socks worn by the deceased.

Attorneys for the defendant argued that they were not Deerpok's while the state, arguing against any decision by the state's high bench that might modify the life sentence, held that they must have been.

June 23, 1925, Hurley was found dead on the lake near the home which had previously been used at some time by Deerpok. Deerpok, who had been in Cudahy, Milwaukee suburb, a few days before, had been seen in the vicinity. No motive for the crime was found, the gun with which Hurley was killed was never located.

GERMANY FIGHTING FOR LOST TOBACCO BUSINESS

Berlin—(AP)—Efforts are being made to bring Germany's tobacco production up to pre-war level, and thus save some of the 150,000,000 marks which the country is spending annually on imported tobacco.

The movement is under the guidance of the newly formed German Tobacco Research Institute with headquarters at Forchheim near Karlsruhe, the Baden capital. Baden grows 50 per cent of the German tobacco production but in the Rhine province and the Bavarian Palatinate there are also isolated localities where it is cultivated.

The total home crop is estimated at about 13,000 tons for the year. Before the war it was about double that figure.

In the botanical gardens attached to the Forchheim Institute are cultivated all varieties of the weed, and it is the purpose of the experts of the institute to improve the home grown by a careful breeding process so that they may ultimately rival the foreign product.

NOTED AVIATOR

CHARLES R. SAMPSON

Upavon, England—(AP)—Air Commodore Charles Rummy Sampson, known familiarly in England as the "Captain Kettle of the air force," was retired.

With his retirement there ends the most adventurous career in the royal air force. He has purchased a house in Wiltshire and will pass the remainder of his life in quiet contrast to his first 44 years.

During the war Commodore Sampson, a small, dapper man, with a slight, rakish beard, was such a terror to the Germans that they put a price of $5,000 on his head, dead or alive.

But one branch of the service was not sufficient for him. In the morning he was an aviator. After luncheon he drove an armored car. And he found time in odd moments to run an armored train.

He was awarded the distinguished service order for his caring work in command of naval airplanes and armored cars at Dunkirk. He was in command of successful air raids on bridges, Zebrugga and Ostend in 1915.

He was mentioned in dispatches five times and was awarded a bar to his D. S. O., the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre.

Since the armistice Commodore Sampson has carried out many daring flights, his last one when he led four Fairey-Napier machines on a round-trip flight to Cape Town.

"Captain Kettle" was one of England's pioneer fliers. He began flying in 1909, when he was in the navy. The admiralty then possessed no machines, so Sampson and other officers who took to the air had to learn to fly in two airplanes placed at their disposal by Sir Frank McClean.

Among Sampson's pioneer feats were the first cross-country night flight, the first ascent—in 1912—from the deck of a man-of-war while steaming and the first airplane experiments.

Commodore Sampson is the son of Charles Leopold Sampson, former president of the Law Society.

STAGE And SCREEN

WEDDING CLIMAX OF "GARDEN OF EDEN"

Weddings have been, since time immemorial, the culmination of Romance, whether it be on the screen, the stage, or in fiction. And they are cheerful or tearful affairs—but never, it is claimed, has one been such a fearful affair as the smashing drama and at the same time spectacular laughter for the climax of "The Garden of Eden." Corinne Griffith's most recent production at the Elita Theatre for the last times today and Thursday.

The wedding itself does not take place at the scheduled time; but when the bride sails majestically out of the presence of the astonished relatives, clad only in her "unmentionables," it is for good and sufficient reason.

Originally a German stage hit by R. Bernauer and R. Oesterreicher, "The Garden of Eden" scored in London last summer with Tallulah Bankhead in the role of Toni. In New York Sylvia Field played the part. Avery Hopwood did the American stage version, and Hans Kraly adapted the story to screen needs, with an eye to Miss Griffith's personality.

Despite its title, "The Garden of Eden," is of thoroughly modern vintage, with Budapest and Monte Carlo as the main locales. The garden of the Hotel Eden, in the famous gaming resort, supplies the source of the title, and a facile comparison with the original Garden of Eden even includes the apples and the snake. The situations on the train from Vienna to Budapest are entirely filmed in color.

Charles Ray and Louise Dresser head the supporting company, which also includes Lowell Sherman, Maude George, Hank Mann and Edward Martindel. Lewis Milestone, whose latest directorial success was "Two Arabian Knights," wielded the megaphone.

can supply against which film players can perform before the camera.

In past years picture producers sought to put upon the screen the most beautiful women and the handsomest men. Today they realize motion picture-goers are satisfied with only passable looks in regards to players but demand real acting ability.

The call for more beautiful scenery has been growing during the past several years until practically all of the naturally most beautiful backgrounds of the west have been used as dramatic locations.

When Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer determined to make a film version of the famous musical play, "Rose-Marie," playing at Fischers Appleton Theatre last times today, one of the first things decided upon after cast and story was to play this famous stage romance against the most beautiful settings that nature could supply.

KING VIDOR'S "THE CROWD" A TRULY GREAT FILM
King Vidor, Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer director who has given to the world of picture-goers such magnificent productions as "The Big Parade," "La Boheme" and "Bardelys the Magnificent," has added another feather to his directorial bonnet with his direction of "The Crowd." The latter, based on Vidor's own original story, is coming Thursday and Friday to Fischers Appleton Theatre and promises to prove one of the big productions of the year. It is a truly American story.

FOUR EXTRA-INNING GAMES OPEN ASSOCIATION CHASE

Brewers Battle Through North Winds To Capture Ten-Frame Game, 11-10

Milwaukee Sluggers Batter Out 19 Hits While Columbus Team Gets Only 9

Columbus, O. (AP)—Though the north winds brought in a low temperature, 6,971 hardy fans paid admission to see the Milwaukee Brewers and Columbus Senators fight it out for the first win of the season.

At the end of ten innings of play, the Brewers left the field with the score in their favor, 11 to 10. Twenty-eight hits were pounded out during the matinee with the Brew bats getting 19 safeties. The Senators were able to chalk up only 9 against the slants of the visiting twirlers.

Score by innings:

Columbus . . . 000 053 110 0-10; 9: 0
Milwaukee . . . 041 013 010 1-11; 19: 3

Batteries:

Milwaukee—Ballou, Wingard, Sanders and Young.
Columbus—Lyons, Zumbro, Harris, Fishbaugh and Bird, Farrell.

Chicago (AP)—The 1928 American Association pennant scramble has started with mid-summer side dishes of umpire baiting and exceptionally close contests.

Four extra inning games, one to a 12-inning tie and another which went into 13 innings only to be forfeited to the visiting teams when angry home town fans bombarded the umpire with seat cushions, featured the opening contest Tuesday. While the weather was cold 36,220 fans filed through the turnstiles to cheer for a first game victory.

FORFEIT ONE GAME

Umpire Bating ended the St. Paul-Houston game. With the score 3 to 2, in favor of St. Paul in the first half of the twelfth inning, first baseman Branch of the Colonels charged that Manager Allen of the Saints interfered with play at first, allowing a batter to reach that sack and another to score. When the umpire refused to reverse his decision, the Louisville fans hurled seat cushions and refused to allow the game to continue. The game was declared forfeited to St. Paul, 9 to 0.

A single by Spencer in the 12th inning with the bases loaded and two were out gave Indianapolis a 5 to 4 victory over Minneapolis. Burwell of the Indians turned in the best pitching performance of the day in the circuit, holding the Millers to one hit in the five innings he toiled.

Columbus lost a ten-inning game, 11 to 10, to Milwaukee and also the services of Pitcher Zambro, who broke a finger on his pitching hand in stopping a liner.

Kansas City and Toledo fought 12 innings to a 2-all tie at Toledo. The contest was called because of darkness. Palmero held the Blues to five hits but numerous errors by his mates spoiled his chances for victory.

MOLL, STRUTZ WIN FROM KOSITZKE, JIMOS PAIR

J. Moll and Herman Strutz took the first of a pair of five-game two-man matches from H. Kositzke and A. Jimos Tuesday evening at the Elk athletic club, winning the battle by 17 pins. The second series will be rolled soon at the Lutheran Aid alleys, and with the teams so close at present it is expected to decide the match as a whirlwind finish by the Jimos-Kositzke team might give that duo the victory.

Jimos had high game of the match, a 205, and high series of 911. H. Kositzke had the only other 200 score, a 202. For the winners Moll had high game of 199 and Strutz had high series of 905, 6 pins behind Jimos. However, his teammate had a 899 to lead Kositzke's 876 by enough margin to clinch the match.

H. Moll 181, 182, 199, 173, 184, 899; H. Strutz 190, 178, 192, 171, 174, 908; Totals—1804.

H. Kositzke 176, 202, 175, 165, 158, 876; A. Jimos 205, 167, 163, 184, 192, 911; Totals 1787.

Many Favorites Of Game In New Suits This Year

New York (AP)—Off with the old love and on with the new was a favorite baseball refrain between seasons. Many of the game's featured players will star in the 1928 campaign in uniforms different from those worn in 1927.

Rogers Hornsby, all dressed up as a Boston Brave, will be in his third uniform in as many years. Last season he worked for the New York Giants and in 1926 personally directed the St. Louis Cards to a world championship.

Another former manager, an American leaguer, has joined another outfit. This Speaker going to center field for the Athletics after a Washington enlistment. The Athletics have also drawn on the St. Louis Browns for outfield replacements in the person of Bing Miller, who has worn the white elephant before.

George Sisler, former Brown manager, who has spent his baseball life in St. Louis, will see something of Washington now.

Players from the St. Louis club are scattered about the American league. With Sisler at the Capital are Milton Graton and Tom Zachary. Detroit outfielder Klam Van Gilder and Harry Rice, and Ken Williams, is with the Red Sox.

The Browning have been furnished some players in return, Lu Blue and

UHLE PREPARED TO STAGE COMEBACK

Evans Believes Indian Hurler Is in Great Shape for Season

BY BILLY EVANS

Can George Uhle come back? In discussing the possibilities of the Cleveland club of 1928 that has been the big question mark with the baseball experts.

Nothing means more to a baseball club that hopes to get somewhere, than an outstanding hurling ace, such as George Uhle is when right.

Last season Uhle, for various reasons, the chief one being a lame arm, was able to win only eight games. With the failure of Uhle went the chances of the Cleveland club to make a respectable showing.

Can George Uhle come back? That was the winter college yell of the diamond experts and it was echoed just as strongly during spring training. There still seems to be considerable doubt on that score in the minds of the wise men of baseball.

I doubt that any one is more interested in the condition of George Uhle than I am, unless it be Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Indians. The ability of Uhle to take his regular turn on the rubber, which calls for him to work about every fourth day and to win consistently while so doing means everything to the Cleveland club.

Or what I witnessed in the spring training plans of the Cleveland club at New Orleans, I am convinced that if George Uhle really slipped as a pitcher he has come back with a vengeance.

For 10 years I have been looking over major league clubs in spring training in the role of so-called expert. It was in 1919 that I first watched Uhle as a member of the Cleveland Indians. While he invariably appears fit in the spring, never have I seen him look better than this year. A sore arm is nothing new with Uhle. A pitcher using so sharp-breaking a curve is susceptible to arm ailments. In talking with him recently he remarked:

"Every spring that I have had a sore arm has been a poor one for me. If the arm doesn't develop a soreness before the opening of the season, I invariably have a good year."

"In 1924 I early developed arm trouble after reporting in the south and was handicapped all year. My record was 15 defeats against nine victories. The previous season I had won 26 games."

"In 1926 my arm never felt better in the spring and as a result I went out and won 27 games, doing my bit to help the club finish second, in a year that no one picked us to even be in the first division."

"Last spring my arm seemed to go dead during the first few weeks of spring training and I was almost practically all season. Winning only eight games last season against 27 the year previous was quite a form reversal."

"This spring I haven't had a bit of trouble with my arm. If that means anything and I am convinced it does, I am in for a big year."

I am strongly inclined to agree with Uhle. I have never seen him look better prior to the opening of the season. The records for the last six years show that every other season Uhle has shined.

To my way of thinking, George Uhle is back with a vengeance and American League batters will soon be agreeing with me on that much mooted question.

Ruth Likes Cincinnati

Although he doesn't pick them to win the pennant Babe Ruth thinks the Cincinnati club is a good "dark horse" bet for the season.

BATTLE FOR CHAMPION HONORS

They topped them all in 1927. What will they do in 1928? That's the question as these champion pitchers and hitters take the field for the new campaign. At left are Larry Benton and Dazzy Vance, who topped both circuits in strikeouts; at right are Babe Ruth, the home run king; Paul Waner and Harry Heilmann, batting leaders of their leagues.

New York (AP)—Uneasily lie the heads that wear the crowns in baseball for there are nearly 400 other athletes trying their best to knock them off.

Harry Heilmann of Detroit, leading batsman of the American league, has established a program of leading his fellows at the bat every other year since 1921 when he was at the top for the first time. He repeated in 1923, 1925 and 1927 and while to be consistent he should stand aside in 1928, he has been hitting as hard as ever in spring training.

Paul Waner, the National league leader, reached the ambition of the swatsmiths on his second chance at the title, after having made a good start on his first appearance in 1926.

The home run championship by common consent belongs to Babe Ruth. He hit the record breaking number of 60 last season. There was a tie between Cy Williams and Hack Wilson in the National and Ruth hit as many homers as the pair of National leaguers.

Opposed to such swatters as these in this year's renewal of the eternal battle of hitting against pitching will be such sterling pitchers as Larry Benton of the Giants and Waite Hoyt of the Yankees, who led their leagues last season in percentage of games won.

Dazzy Vance, the strikeout king and Bob Grove, the leading fanner of the American league, have seemed even faster than before this season and there is no reason to believe they have lost the cunning which enables them to send batsmen back to the bench for drinks of water.

All the holders of the miscellaneous records are back to defend their titles. George Sisler, the base running monarch of the American league, has changed uniforms but this will not keep him from stealing any bases he finds lying around loose.

Badger Gridders Start Four-Week Spring Work

Madison—Everything is in readiness at Camp Randall stadium for the first practice of Wisconsin's four weeks' spring football drill scheduled for this afternoon. A record turnout is anticipated by head coach Thistlethwaite who has stressed the importance of this year's reseason practice.

Complete uniforms had been issued to nearly 200 candidates up until last night. Captain Wagner, veteran tackle, is urging all members of last year's varsity squad to appear in uniform this afternoon with the exception of those who are competing on the baseball and track teams or on the Badger crew.

Thistlethwaite and his staff, which includes Lieb, line coach, Allison, and coach and Holmes, back field coach, have outlined a light workout as a starter. However, it will not be long before the boys are perspiring under the stress of real scrimmages and signal drills.

One of the most interesting points of the spring rehearsals will be the test of freshmen backs. There are several highly touted hail carriers in the first year class and the coaches are determined to learn their true mettle.

During the next four weeks the foundation will be laid for the Badger's fall campaign. On their performance during the ensuing month the grid aspirants will be either placed on the list to report next fall or cancelled from further consideration.

The line of attack outlined by Thistlethwaite calls for a strenuous session, with practice games and an abundance of rough work. Judged on the ability exhibited this spring the gridders will be classified for service on either Varsity or reserve squads, both of which play complete schedules in October and November.

SOFTBALL MANAGERS MEET WEDNESDAY EVE

Managers of softball teams of Appleton will hold their first meeting of the season Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., when preliminary plans will be made for the 1928 summer season. Because of the many teams desiring to play this year in leagues, it is probable that two or three loops may be formed with the title winners meeting in a series for the city championship after the league seasons close.

MUCH PRAISE FOR GREEN BAY BOUTS

Jimmy Byrne - Bud Gorman Scrap Said to Be "Sweet Morsel"

FACTS ABOUT SCRAP
Date: Monday, April 16.
Place: Columbus club, Green Bay.
First bout: 8:30.

Preliminaries: three good bouts which include a return match, Al Kublak, Pulaski and K. O. Walter Madey, Chicago, at 190 pounds; seating capacity, 2800.

Main bout: Bud Gorman, New York vs Jimmy Byrne, Louisville, Ky., at 205 pounds.

Gorman managed by Leo P. Flynn, is Dempsey's training partner and has met such leaders in his division as Tom Heeneay, Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, Young Strubling, Harry Perron, Franz Diener, in both America and Europe. He was an A. E. F. runner-up and is Wisconsin American legion champion.

Byrne is managed by Walk Miller, Deacon Tiger Flowers old boss and is rated with the best heavyweight. Strubling, Joe Sekyra, Chuck Wiggins, are among his recent antagonists.

Gorman is 30. Byrne is 24. Gorman is 6 feet 1 inch tall, Byrne, 6 feet 1 inch. Gorman has had 63 bouts, 15 of which were knockouts. He has lost but 4 of the 63 bouts by decisions. Byrne has had 46 scraps in his whirlwind 4 year career. He has never been knocked out and has knocked out 13 of his opponents. He has 21 decisions and has lost but 4 engagements.

Viewed from any angle whatsoever, the Brown County Boxing Club, at Green Bay appears to have drawn a "sweet morsel" when it succeeded in getting contracts which matched Jimmy Byrne, the flashy giant-killer from the hills of Kentucky with Bud Gorman, a former Wisconsin favorite, who has long since stepped up into the company of the great and maxes jaunts to Scandinavia and the continent in with his American bouts, to add new laurels to the wreath the fans have woven for him.

In the first place the scrap will like-

BOYS BATTLE GIRLS AT OWN GAME IN GREEN BAY

Green Bay—Basketball but of the ordinary will be played in the Columbus club auditorium Friday evening when the C. C. girls, champions of the state championship, meet the Kelly club here. The boys are going to play the contest under girls' rules and for a week they have been practicing the "zone system." Nothing would please the young ladies more than to whip the cheery "Irishmen" who in the past have been inclined to joke about the ability of girls to play basketball.

ly bring together the large company of fight patrons seen in northern Badgerland in many months, and in the second place these numerous fans will undoubtedly be treated in a real metropolitan boxing show, for Gorman and Byrne have been doing very nicely for years without having to meet each other. That they have been roped by a small town club is a smart piece of maneuvering by the matchmakers and promoters at the Bay and their show promises to be a mitt affair with a decided big city color.

Quarter Million Diamond Fans Ready To Shiver In Stands For Opening Games

American, National Clubs Off to Official Start With Each Fighting for Win

Baseball weighted with pennant hopes and fears Wednesday bring the same home to more than 400 major league players and a quarter of a million fans. Opening of the season in eight cities will produce material for the compilation of box scores and a standing of the clubs on which the championship will ultimately be awarded.

A shivering Washington crowd saw the Senators and Boston Red Sox off for a prologue Tuesday. American League fans Wednesday will see the curtain run up at Philadelphia. Boston, Detroit and Chicago while the National League is starting another baseball year at New York, Brooklyn, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Heavy artillery has been massed on every front for the opening battle. Each manager wants to get off in a least temporary triumph and players have been told in vigorous terms that a game won in April may decide a championship in late September.

MANY NEW FACES

The opening finds the usual variety of changes. Ambitious youngsters will be found on every club knocking at the door of opportunity while a quota of veterans has fallen under the handicap of bad legs and arms and passed out of the picture. More than the normal number of former major league players who have served sentences in the minors have disapproved the truth of the saying that they do not come back for here they are again.

There was not Walter Johnson to answer the rallying call of the Washington fans "Hey Barney" when the Senators and Red Sox lined up Tuesday. Buck Wheat's sunburned face will be missing Wednesday and the swarthy Jacques Roussier will not hear a major league fan cry "hit it out of the lot, Jack." The sun will not be dimmed by the brilliant red undershirt of Bob Shawkey when the Yankees emerge from their dugout.

To pick up the bat and glove dropped by the players passed on to the minors, these same minors have sent up young arms and legs to carry on. Eddie Morgan, standing out in a crop of promising young outfielders, will bid for the favor of Cleveland fans while St. Louis has Brannon at second and Kress at short to carry a formidable infield burden. The expensive Chalmers Cissell will be found at short from the White Sox and a willing, hustling Andy Cohen is in charge of second base for the Giants. Bill Kelley has his chance at first base for the Phillies and Arthur Whitney has won the third base bid on the same club. Doug Tait played his first major league for the Red Sox Tuesday.

The living examples of the fact that all is not lost when a major league player drops back to the minors will see action Wednesday when Frank O'Doul plays for the Giants, Harry Ricopda and Howard Freigau go to bat for Brooklyn and Gene Robertson makes himself generally useful for the Yankees.

Every prospect pleases except Aclie weather as the big parade starts. It will require nearly six months to pass a given point, represented by two championship marches and a world series at the end.

New Arena Promised

Humbert Fugazy, Tex Rickard's only rival as a boxing promoter, has announced that his new $6,000,000 sports arena in New York for winter athletic events will be completed by next December.

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Alex Hart, Philadelphia, has over Alex Simms, Canton, O., (10).

At This Season Most Cars Need

- 1. Fresh OIL
Because the changing temperatures of early spring cause dangerous dilution of crankcase oil.
- 2. Fresh GREASE
Because the cold and slush of winter leaves grease stiff, lifeless.
- 3. Fresh WATER
Because radiators may still contain alcohol and sediment, causing motors to overheat—"boil over."

At the Fox Oil and Gas Station trained attendants are ready to care for the needs of your car.
—to drain and flush the crankcase and refill with Delco or Delco Penn Oil of the summer weight.
—to refresh your grease in the transmission, differential and the friction points of the chassis. Alemite greasing system used.
—to drain your water and to cleanse the cooling system, and refill with clean water.

Start the sunny season right—get this service now: It will revive your winter-weary car—assure smoother, livelier performance—mile after mile of care-free driving.

MONTREAL TEAM TAKES EDGE IN HOCKEY PLAY

Montreal—(AP)—Visions of the Stanley cup, the prize denoting world's professional hockey supremacy, were nearer reality for the Montreal Maroons Wednesday as they held a shade of two games to one on the New York Rangers in their five-contest competition.

Flashing rare form Tuesday night, the Maroon brigade marched off with the third game of the series with the Rangers by a count of 2-0. The fourth encounter will take place here Thursday night.

KIKI ON BAT RAMPAGE FOR NEW CUB BOSSES

Kiki Cuyler, banished Pittsburgh outfielder, has been hitting the ball hard and playing so brilliantly through the exhibition games with the Chicago Cubs that critics are beginning to look at the team as a possible pennant winner. Cuyler was the big charge in the Chicago attack that almost blew the Pittsburgh Pirates apart in their exhibition series. One star ball player has made a pennant winner before. Maybe Cuyler will do it.

ILLINOI, PURDUE OPEN BIG TEN DIAMOND YEAR

Chicago—(AP)—The Big Ten baseball season opened Wednesday with the University of Illinois co-champions with Iowa in 1927, playing Purdue at Champaign.

Two other games are on this week's schedule. They are Illinois at Indiana at Ohio State, The Illinois, back from a victorious southern training trip, are favorites.

Heilfrich Won't Go Over Because of business reasons, Alan Heilfrich, who once defeated Fausto Nurni in a half-mile race and who was a member of the 1924 Olympic team, says he won't be able to compete for the team this season.

BANNER STRUGGLE RECALLS STELLAR TEAM OF MR. MACK

Fourteen Years Ago Connie Scrapped One of Baseball's Greatest Machines

New York—(AP)—The big fracas of the baseball campaign that gets under way Wednesday may be concentrated in the National league's well advertised pennant scramble but the main drama of the season surrounds the angular, kindly figure of the veteran Cornelius McGillicuddy.

Fourteen years ago Connie Mack scrapped one of the greatest baseball machines of all time. Among other starting moves he asked waivers on Chief Bender, Jack Coombs, and Eddie Plank.

Imagine not only parting with, but actually asking waivers on as great a pitching trio as any club ever had in the history of the game.

Bender, Plank and Coombs—any one of them worth at least $100,000, if not twice that sum as present-day baseball prices go.

Today Mack's big three are Grove, Remond and Ehmke, again a south paw and two great right-handers, but not to be compared as a trio with the famous group that pitched the Athletics to four pennants in five years.

THREE OLD PIRATES Fourteen years ago, Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Tris Speaker, rivals for all-around honors, and the stars of three pennant contending clubs, finished one-two-three in the American League batting race.

Today these musketeers, with the end of the long trail in sight, are in the same uniform for the first time, to mark another dramatic turn in the fortunes of baseball associated with Connie Mack.

The fourteen years it has taken to get this great trio together have taken their toll. Collins already is out of daily harness, devoting his experience rather than his playing ability to Mack's machine. Cobb and Speaker have slowed up but they still have a lot of baseball in their bats.

All three have retained their batting

CLOSE ENTRIES FOR "Y" VOLLEY TOURNEY TODAY

Four teams were entered in the 1928 northeastern Wisconsin district volleyball championships of the Y. M. C. A., which will be held in Appleton Saturday afternoon and evening, by Tuesday morning, according to A. P. Jensen, local association physical director. Entries for the most close Wednesday evening and Mr. Jensen was expecting a big rush of teams during the day. There are approximately ten teams in the district eligible to compete and at least eight are expected in the tourney, which will be double elimination play at both the gym and Lawrence college gymnasiums. The entries include the Appleton "Y" team, 1927 Wisconsin state champion, and the Kimberly-Clark Co. team of Kimberly, 1927 northeastern district champs.

eyes even though they can't cover the ground they used to.

THOMAS HAS SAY "That Connie Mack, the baseball wizard, can put a team of nine men in the field, not one of whom ever touched a drop of liquor, but one of whom knows the taste of tobacco," was the statement of Ira Thomas, catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, made at a dinner.

The Philadelphia $100,000 infield (McGinnis, Collins, Barry and Baker) consist of men who don't know the taste of liquor and only one has ever used tobacco, according to Thomas, who dwelt upon the subject of sobriety among players of the national game.

WEIGHT LIMIT FOR OUTAGAMIE-CO ROADS

State Highway Commission Puts Limit of 7,000 Pounds on Class B Roads

Weight limits have been established on practically all Class B highways in the state, according to word received by A. G. Bruswitz, county highway commissioner, from the state highway department.

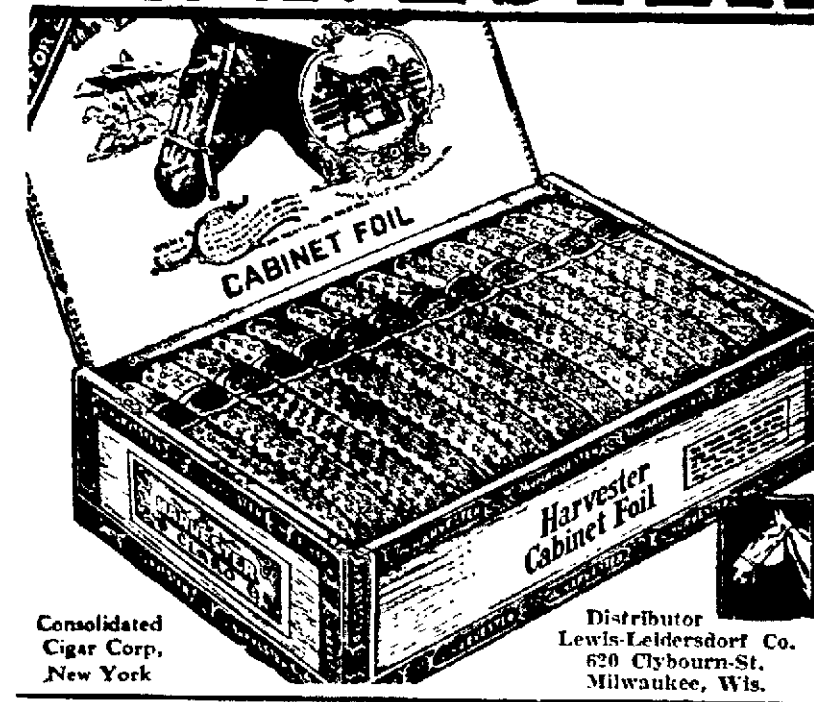

The weight limit on class B highways in Outagamie-co is 7,000 pounds, which is the second highest weight limit in the state. Other counties which have a 7,000-pound limit are Chetek, Manitowish, Racine and Winnebago.

The smallest weight limit is in Oconto co where passenger cars only are allowed to use unpaved highways. The limits in other counties range from 3,500 pounds to 10,000 pounds. A small number of counties have no weight limit. They are Ashland, Bayfield, Chippewa, Douglas, Florence, Forest, Iron, Langlade, Lincoln, Milwaukee, Oneida, Price, Vilas, Washburn, Waukesha and Waupaca.

ZIEGLER LEAVES FOR AID BOOSTER MEETING

Why buy performance that CHRYSLER "72" has obsoleted?

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Crown Sedan $1795

CHRYSLER "72" performance obsoletes all other performance at its price or even for $1000 more.

The first Chrysler, four years ago, put in the discard the cumbersome, bulky vehicles of its day.

Chrysler "72" performance widens that margin of superiority.

No other car today approaches it for roadability, hill climbing, acceleration, dependability, comfort, ease of handling, style, safety, long life and appearance.

For Chrysler's engineering genius and precision manufacture have gone steadily forward to greater heights.

That is why the "72" today gives you performance that sets the pace for the entire industry for years to come. 75 brake horsepower. 72 miles and more per hour. Vibrationless smoothness that only a Chrysler counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft can give. Flashing acceleration in traffic. There are no hills to the "72."

Longer chassis with no side-sway—spring ends mounted in rubber shock insulators give consummate ease of riding.

Why pay a premium for the out-of-date performance others give? See and ride in the Chrysler "72." You will realize then how Chrysler "72"—at less money—makes a dead letter of all other performance in its field today.

"UNCLE ALF" SHOWS WORLD HE STILL IS YOUNG AT 80 YEARS

Former Kentucky Governor Invites Sportsmen to Hunt With "Old Limber"

Happy Valley, Tenn. (P)—Once again the fiddler who fiddle his hiddle-diddle, the huntsman's horn will resound over Happy Valley, and back of Old Limber, famous hound of political history, will echo on April 13 to serve notice that the trail of the red fox has been found.

Five hundred sportsmen, including United States senators, congressmen and governors, are coming to pay tribute to Alf A. Taylor.

"Uncle Alf" is the man who made Old Limber famous throughout the nation. And he is one of the few republicans elected governor of Tennessee. He was elected in 1920 at the age of 72. It was his second attempt, for back in 1886 he and his democratic brother, Bob, who had served as governor, what was known as "The War of the Roses" for the office—and Bob won.

"The War of Roses" will always live in Tennessee history. Alf wore a red rose and Bob a white. They traveled about the state together, debating daily before crowds which resembled a bunch of sea anemones. Each was an accomplished fiddler and they set the issues of the day to the music of the fiddle. Brilliant men and able as well as actors who dramatized political platforms, they soon had the whole country watching the unusual race in Tennessee.

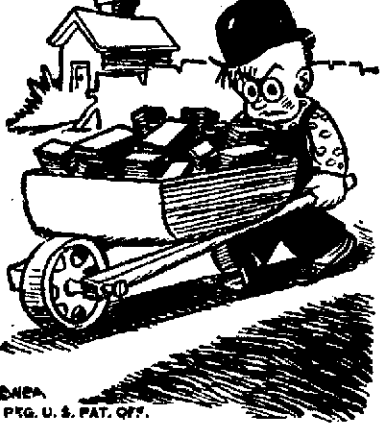

There were a few more white roses in Tennessee that year and Bob won. He served three terms as governor and after retiring from politics was brought back and sent to the United States senate, where he was serving at the time of his death.

Meanwhile the Knight of the Red Rose had served in congress. He was living quietly in his home in Happy Valley when the republicans nominated him for governor in 1920. Riding midnight trains, rising ahead of the sun and driving to town which railroads had never reached, Alf learned his opponent was referring to him as an old man.

Out came his vivid description of Happy Valley, the country which had kept him young and agile in body and mind, out came his story of Old Limber, the fox hound. He told the voters of the blue and lofty peaks, of river-threaded valleys and showed them he could play the fiddle.

He told how he invited a distinguished friend to his home for a fox hunt and extolled the greatness of Old Limber. The dogs were turned loose at the top of Roane mountain. Unleashed, one of the hounds soon found the scent of a fox and the rest of the pack joined in.

Around the mountain they circled, yelping and baying, while each dog owner listened for the bark of his own entry and thrilled with the music of the pack. But nowhere was heard the voice of Old Limber, the aged, around the mountain went the dogs again, the baying growing fainter and then swelling in volume. Still no sound from Old Limber. Hours passed. Just as Alf's spirits were about to sing to the depths of despair, someone raised a hand for silence.

Far away, barely audible, came the bark of Old Limber. A staccato of yelps, a hot trail and a red fox! The pack dashed madly down the mountain and joined Old Limber. The fox, blocked from his den, headed down the mountainside. Old Limber a few paces behind. The yelps grew fainter and suddenly the chorus stopped.

"He's in a hole," someone remarked.

"No, Old Limber's got him," Alf replied, and the hunters, rushing to the scene, found Old Limber clinging to a red fox, nearly five feet long.

"The point of this story," Alf then declared, is this: "My boys all claim to be athletes, yet I can break down any boy I have — and I've done it time and again — behind this kennel of dogs after a red fox in the Appalachian Mountains. So get it out of your head I am too old to be governor of Tennessee."

Old Limber, the songs and the fiddle were not in the republican platform, but they had much to do with Alf's election. And they will figure in the fox hunt on April 13, led by Alf A. Taylor, still active and vigorous at 80 years of age.

NO AIR MAIL LINE HERE UNTIL AFTER SURVEY OF DEMAND

Promoters Want to Know if There Will Be Enough Business to Warrant Planes

It will be necessary to conduct a survey in Appleton and other cities to determine the sentiment toward air mail before any airplane line operator would be warranted to start a mail line, in the opinion of Fred Schlitz, chairman of the chamber of commerce aviation committee. He attended a meeting of representatives of a dozen Wisconsin cities in Milwaukee Monday.

He was accompanied by Karl M. Haugen, president of the North American Airways company, and Fred Felix Wettengel, postmaster.

The meeting was called by the aviation committee of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

Two proposed air mail routes were discussed. One would extend from Milwaukee to Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Wausau, Eau Claire, thence to Duluth and Superior. The other followed the lake shore through Sheboygan, Manitowish, Two Rivers, Green Bay, Marinette, Menominee and Escanaba, Mich.

Representatives of the cities were urged to make a survey to determine the amount of air mail that might be expected. Adequate ground facilities, it was stated, were necessary to assure the lines.

"This is a pioneer service that will be followed with parcel post, express, and then passenger service," declared Carl Herzfeld, chairman of the association of commerce air service committee, who presided. "We are going to count physical connections between Wisconsin cities by the minute rather than the hour and with other states by the hour instead of by the day."

Mr. Schlitz reported that cities in this section of the state were further developed toward aviation than in other parts. He said that the founding of the airport here and others in neighboring cities had done much to arouse the enthusiasm of Milwaukee civic organizations which were anxious to make their city the hub of aerial activities for the state.

The interest of the cities to be served on the routes was described by E. J. French, Escanaba, Mich.; R. F. Mahle, Green Bay; A. T. Sands, Eau Claire; E. T. Markle, Fond du Lac; Edward R. Smith, Oshkosh; Benjamin Alexander, Wausau; Edward W. Moeckey, Manitowish; and E. S. Eastman, Marinette.

The conference was continued during the afternoon until an adjournment was taken for the visitors to go

USE RATS TO SHOW VALUE OF MILK IN DIET OF ANIMALS

The Fox river valley breeders association will conduct a demonstration at the Schlager Hardware company this week with two white rats, to show the advantage of a milk diet. One of the rats has been placed on a milk diet and the other on a no-milk diet. The diets have been formulated by Dr. L. S. Palmer, of the division of agricultural bio-chemistry at the University of Minnesota.

The rats were brought to Appleton by Robert Amundson, county agent, who is sponsoring the demonstration.

SECOND WARD ALDERMEN ELECTED WITHOUT COST

Two more candidates for city offices were added to the group who were elected to office at no expense to themselves. It was indicated Monday when late returns had been completed. Charles D. Thompson and John Diderich successful candidates for the long and short terms as aldermen from the Second ward were the men whose names were added to the list of those with no expenditures. Richard Refke, previously reported as having no expenditures, spent $5.04 according to his late return. It cost Harvey Preibe $16.53 to be elected alderman from the Fifth ward, and Mike Steinhauer $5.50 to retain his seat as representative from the First ward. Oren Earle, defeated candidate for the short term as alderman from the Second ward, spent $5.04.

WANT FARMERS TO BUY IN CHEESE FEDERATION

Outagamie-co farmers who sell to the Wisconsin Cheese Producer's Federation are being asked to help buy up the one-half million dollar issue of preferred stock which was voted on at the last meeting of the federation in March. There are about six factories in this district and managers are pushing the stock selling drive. The stock sale is being carried on in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The stock issue is said to be the first offered by the federation and the proceeds will be used to finance the organization's business. A general expansion of federal activities will follow the successful disposal of the stock.

USED CARS

"with an OK that counts"

Because we are delivering more new Chevrolets than at any other time in our history, we are offering a number of exceptional values in reconditioned used cars.

Our used cars carry an official O. K. tag which is reproduced on this page. Attached to a used car by a Chevrolet dealer it signifies that every vital part of the car has been inspected, properly reconditioned and where worn, replaced by a new part. The outstanding feature of this plan lies in the fact that it enables anyone to select a used car with absolute confidence as to its satisfactory operation, and the price is absolutely fair and right.

Reasons why you should buy your used car from a Chevrolet dealer

- 1 — Chevrolet dealers have been selected by the Chevrolet Motor Company on the basis of their financial responsibility and dependability.
- 2 — Chevrolet dealers offer used cars on a plan originated and endorsed by the Chevrolet Motor Company.
- 3 — Chevrolet dealers have the necessary modern tools and equipment to properly recondition used cars.
- 4 — Chevrolet dealers desire the goodwill of used car buyers the same as they enjoy from new car buyers.

STATE READY TO LET CONTRACT FOR ROADS COSTING $4,771,623

Fund of $109,918 Is Available for Grading Black Creek-
New London Road

Madison—(AP)—Herbert J. Kueling, state highway engineer Wednesday announced that contracts will be let during April for $4,771,623 worth of road work in Wisconsin. Construction will be on nearly 220 miles of road.

Of this mileage, nearly a hundred miles is to be in concrete costing $3,485,321. Gravel and crushed rock contracts will be for a total of nearly 87 miles, costing $885,655 and the third largest portion of the construction work will be for $155 miles of grading estimated to cost $235,126. Five bridges are included in the program.

Here are some of the projects for which the contracts will be let:

Stoughton-McFarland road, Dane-co, 10 miles of concrete fund of $458,630 available. Contract to be let April 25.

Lake Mills to Madison road, in Jefferson-co, state trunk 30, half a mile of gravel, funds available $14,000.

Diageer-Overland road in Milwaukee county, 32 miles of concrete at $75,000 for which contract is to be let April 4 (State trunk 100).

Saukville bridges (Two) $50,000 available. Ozaukee-co state highway 57.

Burlington—Fox Lake road on state trunk 83, concrete for 2.27 miles planned with $70,711 available.

Waterford-Mukwonago, Racine county road on state highway 33, 4.73 miles of concrete projected at estimated cost of $150,000. Contract to be let April 13.

More than five miles of concrete on State trunk 23 in Fond du Lac-co between Fond du Lac and Banner, estimated cost $203,236.

In Brown-co, U. S. 141, between Denmark and the south county line, 2.23 miles of concrete for which a fund of $48,968 is available. And from the Brown-co line south to Manitowoc, 6.4 miles of concrete for which $138,742 is available.

In Manitowoc-co between that city and Valders, 3.7 miles of concrete (state highway 31) for which $140,500 is available.

SCHNEIDER BILL FOR DOOR-CO STATE PARK IS PASSED BY SENATE

Congressman Wants Playground Named After Jean
Nicolet, Famous Explorer

A bill introduced by Congressman George J. Schneider of this district calling for the sale of more than 1,000 acres of land in Door-co by the government to the state for a state park, passed the senate on April 4. The act provides that this land will be placed in the disposal of the state of Wisconsin for park purposes for $1.25 per acre.

The picturesque tract formerly used as a store quarry by the government during the time Lake Michigan ports were being built is believed to be the landing place of Jean Nicolet in 1634. The proposed park site overlooks Green Bay and has a large quantity of virgin timber on it.

In honor of this early French explorer, prominent in Wisconsin history, Congressman Schneider has proposed naming the new playground "Nicolet State Park." History relates that in 1634 Father Jean Nicolet passed this point on his visit to the Illinois Indians and two years later Father Claude Alloué also visited there.

Besides its rich historical associations, this area offers scenic beauties and sports facilities not easily surpassed anywhere, and lies approximately two miles west of the city of Sturgeon Bay and on the south shore of the bay. Rising 150 feet above the waters, it presents a scene view including cities, waters dotted with wooded islands, vast sweeps of bluff-majestic headlands, hills, valleys, meadows, and the splendid panorama of the largest city on the coast in America.

Excellent sport facilities are available in this area. Boating and fishing are unsurpassed as the water is from 15 to 25 feet deep for a mile along the shore on the Sturgeon Bay side up to within a few feet of the shoreline, and there is a fine harbor adjacent to the land. A strip of beach makes bathing possible and the presence in large numbers of bass, pick-eret and perch makes the adjacent waters a fisherman's paradise. Passage of the Schneider bill offers the state an opportunity to acquire at a nominal cost an area important not only historically but also because of its natural beauty and its value for recreational purposes for the people of the state and nation.

Fire Patrols

To aid in protecting forests, fire-tool boxes are transported by motor and mule, the animals reaching difficult places where the automobile cannot go. This sketch is from an actual photograph showing a ranger, his pack-mule and enough fire fighting tools to equip a force of twenty-five men.

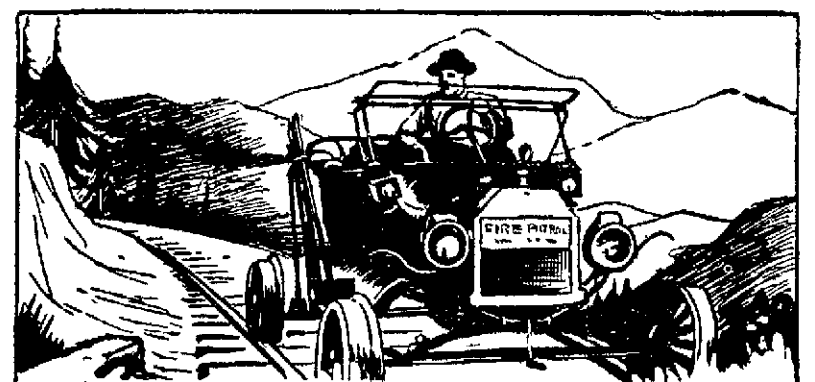

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1925-26.

The use of the heliograph in signaling the locations of fires is often used by the Forest Service. The heliograph reflects the sun's rays.

The ranger above is a member of the forest patrol in Manzano National Forest, New Mexico. From every raised point he scans the forest for smoke.

An automobile mounted on car-wheels and fitted with fire-fighting tools plays an important part in forest protection. The speeder sketched here operates along the line of the San Joaquin and Eastern railroad, in California. The ranger also must protect his district against men who try to steal timber by claiming government land without rights.

WAUPACA COUNTY NEW LONDON-CLINTONVILLE-WAUPACA NEARBY TOWNS

CARS LOCK FENDERS, ONE BADLY DAMAGED

Place Where Streets Come Together Has Been Scene of Many Accidents

New London—A delivery truck belonging to the Popke grocery, and driven by William Peterson, was damaged badly on Tuesday afternoon at about 5 o'clock when it was caught by the fender of a car parked on the east side of the street, close to the bridge on South Pearl-st.

The impact was so great that the truck was turned about in its tracks. Mr. Peterson, noting another car parked in front of the Popke newsstand, stepped on the brakes forcibly in order to avoid crashing through the iron railing of the bridge into the Wolf river. The process of turning ripped three tires, broke a radius rod, a knuckle in the steering wheel, broke the lights and one fender. Mr. Peterson was uninjured. The car on the east of the street belonged to Mr. Manders of Stevensville.

This point of the street has been the cause of numerous accidents of minor importance because the street converges at the bridge and leaves little room on either side. No parking signs are often disregarded with the result that a double of cars is of ten without sufficient room to pass without danger.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

New London—A few friends assembled at the Edward Steingraber home Sunday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of their host. The evening was spent playing five hundred, Mrs. Edward Becker and Andrew Ruckdaschel receiving prizes for high scores. Lunch was served. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Anna Ruckdaschel and daughter Veretta, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Becker and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spiering.

A farewell party was held Sunday evening at the Louis Rush home, previous to the departure of the Rush family for their new home on a farm near Waupaca. Sheephead constituted the evening's entertainment, five tables being in play. Prizes for high scores were won by Mrs. Edward Becker and Charles Palmer; second prizes were captured by Mrs. Carl Ory and James Bodoh. A farewell gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Rush. The following guests were present: Messrs. and Mesdames Carl Ory, William Borchardt, Charles Palmer, Leo Tully, Paul Schulz, Fage Dexter, James Bodoh, Hugo Bergman and Edward Roloff.

About thirty couples were present at the dancing party given by the Royal Neighbor Lodge at Royal Neighbor hall Monday evening. The Royal Sertanaders, a group of high school boys, furnished the music. Lunch was served. The committee in charge included Mrs. Frank Meating, Mrs. Clarence Kellor and Mrs. Emily Nelson. A short program given during the evening, included pep singing, reading of a spring selection by Mrs. William Werner and reading of spring selection by Mrs. Wallace Ramsom.

NOMINATING METHOD USED IN SELECTING ROTARIAN OFFICERS

Clintonville Organization Gets Underway and Will Hold Meeting April 23

Clintonville—After due consideration as to the manner of choosing officers for the Rotary club, whether by nominations from the floor or by a nominating committee, a majority voted in favor of the nominating committee plan. Following this decision a committee consisting of H. E. Brooks, W. A. Olen, Charles Polkman, and C. C. McConville were appointed as such committee and were commissioned to make their report at the meeting on April 23.

In order that the report of the nominating might be representative of the wishes of a majority of the club, president Stieg asked that a suggestive ballot be taken, which was turned over to the nominating committee as a guide in making up their slate, although suggesting that they should not be obligated to abide by the ballot.

Three out of town guests were present, Lynn Matteson, county agent of Sawyer county, William G. McCaw of Kenosha, and William Vulk of Marion.

The Rev. Stubenvill of Pella was present and in a brief talk expressed appreciation for the material service of the Rotary club to a deserving young lad in his parish, which had made it possible for him to continue his school work and finish with his class.

A district meeting of the Rebecca Lodge was held at Shawano Tuesday April 10, called by the district president, Mrs. Herman Brohm, of this city. The state Assembly President, Mrs. Mae Waltherbach of Marshfield was present and took charge of a school of instruction at the afternoon session.

This was the last meeting to be held by the Shawano district, as it contained but the three lodges, Shawano, Marion and Clintonville. A re-districting will be made and these three lodges will be distributed among other districts.

Other members of the local lodge in attendance at the convention were, in addition to Mrs. Herman Brohm, Mrs. Alvin Knutson, Mrs. Frank Kohl, Mrs. Louis Johnson, Mrs. Charles Bockhaus, and Miss Jennie Swanson. WAUPACA-CO BANKS HAVE $11,500,000 SAVING DEPOSITS

21 Institutions Report Record Amount of Savings

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa—Deposits aggregating $11,500,000, the greatest sum in history, were reported by Waupaca-co's 21 banks when the most recent call was made by the commissioner of banking. This is an increase of over $400,000 since Dec. 31, 1927, when $11,210,282.73 was on deposit.

Total resources have advanced from $12,576,599.17 to $12,963,782.38, and the surplus and undivided profits from $415,631.91 to $416,242.95. The call came three days before the Royal-ton State bank was taken over by the First National bank of Manawa, so the Royal-ton bank's totals are included in the report.

The Dairyman's State bank of Clintonville has the greatest amount of deposits with $1,212,122.50, followed by the First National bank of Clintonville with $1,070,846.83, the Old National bank of Manawa with $1,049,313.60, the First National bank of Marion $891,846.20 and the First National bank of New London $548,382.03. The First National bank of Manawa had deposits of $490,446.89, the Farmers State bank of Manawa $280,471.85 and the Royal-ton State bank $21,832.55.

Funeral services for Charles Handrich, 72, were held Saturday afternoon from St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church at Manawa, the Rev. R. A. Karpinsky in charge. Interment was in the Manawa cemetery. Mr. Handrich died Wednesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank S. E. Gehrke, at Clintonville, where he had gone for a visit.

Mr. Handrich was born in Germany, May 21, 1856. He came to this country with his parents in 1857 and settled in the state of New York where he lived for ten years. The family then moved to Bloomfield, Wausharaco., where Mr. Handrich married Miss Mary Clapps in 1880.

The first home of the newly weds was on the farm, three miles west of Manawa, which is now owned by Walter Handrich and they spent on this place. Mrs. Handrich died in 1912.

Survivors are eight children, Albert, Carl, Henry and Walter, Manawa, Frank, Summit Lake, Bernard, New London, Meta, Manawa and Amanda, Clintonville; 15 grandchildren, three brothers, Rudolph and Guss, Manawa; and Albert, Poyssippi; five sisters, Mrs. August Prill, Mrs. Robt. Kottke, Mrs. Herman Buchholz, and Mrs. William Abraham, Manawa; and Mrs. Edward Buchholz, Poyssippi.

Miss Jessie Schmundt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schmundt, town of Dupont and Frank Romberg of Marion, were married Sunday afternoon, at Zion Lutheran church. The Rev. M. J. Durkop, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Schmundt was attended by Miss Irene Missail of Dupont, maid of honor and Miss Hazel Potratz of Oshkosh, cousin of the groom, bridesmaid. The groom's attendants were Lester Schmundt, brother of the bride, and Dr. Henry Romberg of Oshkosh, brother of the groom. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. The young couple will make their home on a farm three miles from Marion.

FACE BRICK

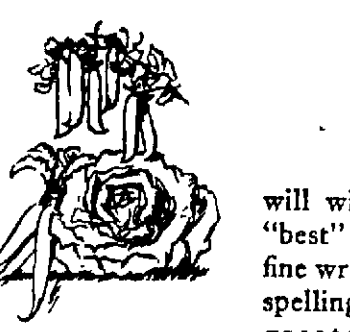

Just the time it takes to write a letter may win a prize for you in the FERRY'S SEEDS $5000.00 contest

WE WANT to hear from men and women, boys and girls, all over the United States on "Why I Plant a Garden." To make it worth your while to write us a letter about it, we have set aside $2000 in cash prizes for grown-ups, and $2000 in cash prizes for boys and girls. All are to write on the same subject. But to make the contest fair, the letters of grown-ups will be judged separately from those of boys and girls.

There are 61 prizes for grown-ups. The first prize is $500; the second $200; the third $100; then there are eight prizes of $50 each; twenty of $25 each; and thirty of $10 each.

For boys and girls (sixteen and under) there are 105 prizes. The first prize is $500; the second $200; the third $100; then there are four prizes of $50 each; eight of $25 each; twenty of $15 each; thirty of $10 each; and forty of $5 each. A generous chance for many!

Naturally, the "best" letters will win prizes. But "best" doesn't mean fine writing, or correct spelling, or even the greatest number of reasons as to why you plant a garden. We want ideas. Do you have a home garden to secure food more delicious than you can get in any other way? Or for the protection of the health of children through proper diet? Or to get recreation and health from working in the sunshine? Or to make the home attractive through the beauty of flowers? Do you garden for economy and pin money? We want all the reasons why you plant your garden.

The prize-winning letters may be written in a few minutes, or an hour or so. Nobody knows. Your own ideas as to why you plant a garden may seem commonplace to you, but very important to the judges. You can't tell. Your garden may be small—just a patch of a place. Or too big for one person to tend to. Size doesn't matter. It may be a flower garden, a vegetable garden, or both. Kind doesn't matter, either. Nothing matters except that you tell us why you plant it.

Read the rules. They are simple enough. Then write your letter and be sure to mail it before midnight, May 15th. The contest closes then.

You Ferry's Seed dealers—we have set aside $1000 in cash prizes for you, too. Your subject is different. We want you to write on "How I Promote the Sale of Ferry's Seeds." Style and spelling don't count here, either. Just ideas. We want some of your own experiences with the Ferry display boxes, the beautiful lithographed Ferry display packets and the attractive posters in your store window. Where is your box displayed to get maximum sales—on the right side of the store near the front? For the 17 best letters—those judged most helpful to other dealers in selling Ferry's Seeds—we will pay 17 prizes.

The first dealer prize is $300; the second $150; the third $100; then there are four equal prizes of $50 each; and ten of $25 each. The rules are for you, too. So read them and get started.

RULES

1. All letters (except those from Ferry's Seed dealers) must be on the subject "Why I Plant a Garden."
2. Ferry's Seed dealers must write on the subject "How I Promote the Sale of Ferry's Seeds."
3. Letters not to exceed 500 words in length.
4. Contest commences NOW. Your letter must be mailed to D. M. Ferry & Co., Dept. H, Detroit, Michigan, by midnight May 15, 1928.
5. Name and address of writer must appear at top of each page of letter. (Letters from those who are sixteen and under must state age of writer under name and address.)
6. Employees of D. M. Ferry & Co. are not eligible.
7. In event of tie, each tying contestant will receive full amount of prize.
8. Awards will be made as soon after May 15th as possible, and all contestants will be notified.
9. The judges will be—Dexter M. Ferry, Junior, President D. M. Ferry & Co.; E. T. Meredith, Publisher Better Homes and Gardens; H. Hayward, Mgr. Agricultural Bureau, N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia, Pa.

COURSE IN SCHOOL PROVES ADAPTABLE FOR HOME MAKING

Teaching of Home Economics Has to Do With All Parts of Home Life

Home making education should establish standards of judgment and ideals of achievement that will function and enable the girl not only to lead a more effective life but to see herself as a member of the home group with definite social and economic responsibilities, according to Miss Catherine Spence, head of the department of home economics of Appleton high school.

These standards and ideals are first of all personal, that is they are related to the individual and should help her make a wise use of her time, energy and money. Such training should enable the girl to keep herself mentally, morally, and physically in a state of health and attractive well-being.

Since her family and her home is the group with which she is now most intimate contact, and since she may eventually be responsible for the establishment of a family of her own, she must be brought to an understanding of the importance of that group and of her membership in it.

A COOPERATIVE GROUP

She must recognize the home as a cooperative group, organized and maintained for the protection and development of individuals and an institution fundamental in the welfare of the race. Along with this comes a recognition of the responsibility as a member of the larger groups of the community, state, and nation, Miss Spence said.

The high school courses in home economics are planned with the purpose of providing for the development of appreciations and ideals concerning home life and activities as well as opportunity for the acquisition of a degree of skill in handling typical home situations.

Principles underlying the selection, care, and preparation of food suitable for family meals with an appreciation of dietetically correct food combinations are taught in the course called meal planning and food preparation.

"Food is too important in human welfare to be chosen in a haphazard way," said Miss Spence. "Many of our physical ills come from eating the wrong food or good food in the wrong quantity. Food economy as well as good nutrition is obtained by wise combination, choice and preparation.

SETS UP STANDARD

The nutrition course deals with essential information necessary to control the health of members of the family of all ages. Special emphasis is put on infant feeding, the food for children of pre-school and high school age. Since everyone is often called upon to aid in case of emergency or to feed the sick, some work in emergencies and diet for abnormal conditions has been placed in this course.

Home planning and child training unit aims to set up standards for the wise selection of a home with special reference to fundamental problems of construction and arrangement.

Students are taught to cultivate an intelligent choice and use of suitable furnishings with ability to select cultured and refined color schemes. The selection and care of working equipment from the economical standpoint is also stressed. The training of young children includes habit formation, methods of control and correction of unsocial behavior, suitable toys, games and books.

CARE FOR CLOTHES
Textile and clothing work aims to develop a certain skill in the purchase and construction of clothing and to teach proper methods of repairing and caring for children as to means of creating and developing habits of thrift and a pride in looking one's best.

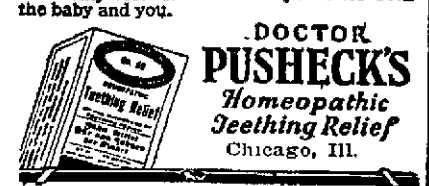

The purpose of the advanced course in costume and design is to set up a better standard of dress based upon a knowledge of the principles of design and color in their application to prevailing styles and to type of individuals.

The application of this information is carried out in the construction work. A student who has actually constructed a garment has secured a background which makes her a more competent consumer and a better judge of ready-made garments in the opinion of Miss Spence.

Would 1000 Tempt You to Risk Your Baby's Health?

Of course not—yet thousands are jeopardizing their babies' health by letting them suffer while teething, which often results in fever, colic, convulsions, skin trouble... and worse. Your baby will not suffer while teething if you use Dr. Pusheck's Teething Relief. "It is a relief to baby," writes Mrs. Gus Kraak, Peabody, Kansas. "It always makes baby happy while teething." For the past 40 years it has saved thousands of babies from needless tortures. Being homeopathic, Dr. Pusheck's Teething Relief is absolutely harmless. An overdose cannot be given. It keeps both the baby and the family happy during baby's teething time. Get a bottle today from your druggist. It costs only 75c. It will mean peace for both the baby and you.

NOYES GETS TITLE MOST "TITLED MAN"

Newspaper Articles Dig Up Many Connections of Vocational School Man

"The most titled man" among vocational school instructors in the state is the cognomen a Fond du Lac newspaper has given H. G. Noyes of Appleton vocational school. Mr. Noyes recently attended a conference of vocational instructors at Fond du Lac and some of his associates divulged the fact that he carries a list of titles which might have even a college professor with a whole alphabet after his name, envious.

Mr. Noyes is supervisor of itinerant instructors in pulp and papermaking for the Wisconsin department of vocational education, vice president of the Wisconsin Vocational association trade and industries section, member of committee on education of the American Pulp and Paper Manufacturers' association, chairman in charge of educational projects of the technical association of the pulp and paper industry in the ninth district comprising the states of Wisconsin and Minnesota and in a member of the educational committee of paper mill superintendents' association. He is also ex-officio general chairman of sectional meetings and exhibits of the state vocational association which are held at the time of the teacher's conventions in Milwaukee.

The paper also says that Mr. Noyes is a modest individual having refused to divulge his titles and arguing that they sometimes were more of a burden than something of which to be proud.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Kranner of Milwaukee returned home Monday afternoon spending the weekend with Appleton friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jacobs of Oshkosh were Appleton visitors Monday.

GRUENKE WILL PAVE RELOCATED SECTION

Local Contractor Was Lowest Bidder for Little Chute Hill Project

Greunke Brothers' Construction company of Appleton was awarded the contract to pave the relocated section of Highway 41 which eliminates the dangerous curve at the foot of the Little Chute hill, at the divisional highway office in Green Bay Tuesday. Greunke's bid was $5,766.40.

Three other contractors submitted estimates on this job. Garvey-Weyen Construction company and Simpson-Parker Construction company of Appleton and the Joseph McCarty Construction company of Kaukauna. The Greunke company were the builders of the new bridge across the small pond at the foot of the Little Chute hill, over which the new road will pass. They built the bridge and filled in the road bed for the relocation two years ago but the work was not completed last year because of shortage of funds.

Koepeke Brothers' Construction company of Appleton was second low bidder on the Denmark-South County line road, which also was let at Green Bay Tuesday. This contract was awarded to the Jorgenson Construction company of Denmark for $168,006.36. The local company's bid was $171,821.10. There were six bidders on this project.

The Strie Construction company of Two Rivers received the contract to build the Valders-Manitowoc road for $103,767.82. There were no local bidders on this job.
